Noon Trend Shows Voting To Be Light

Voting remained mostly on the light side as of noon today in Circleville.

Most polling stations reported a small, but steady turnout during the morning hours. A late afternoon rush was expected, with many voters expected to head for their various precincts following working hours.

At noon workers at the city's 15 precincts reported a total of 824 votes cast. Most of the polling officials said this figure was about average for an off-year election. Crisp air, but plenty of sunshine made it an ideal voting day here. The favorable weather is expected to continue throughout the day, indicating that heavier voting is in the making toward evening.

COUNTYWIDE about 6,500 voters are expected to journey to the polls during the day. This is about half of the registered ballot casters in the county.

To be elected are city, township and school board officials. Voters also will pass or reject various tax levies, a local option test and four amendments to the state constitution.

Like the city, early hour voting in the 30 county precincts was reported light. But a heavier count is anticipated in the evening hours.

The heaviest vote here at noon was at Precinct 1-C where 107 ballots had been marked and deposited. This polling station is in the Methodist Church basement.

The lightest count was at 1-E where 23 were cast. This station is at the Forest Cemetery office.

Total voting by precincts in the city at noon showed: 1-A (61); 1-B (45); 1-C (107); 1-D (45); 1-E (23); 1-F (67); 1-G (95); 2-A (70); 2-B (67); 3-A (41); 3-B (45); 4-A (28); 4-B (42); 4-C (64); 4-D (34).

DiSalle Denies Any Plan for Federal Post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, who has announced he will not stand for reelection, reassured cabinet members of their jobs today.

"I have no plans beyond this term," DiSalle said at a cabinet meeting.

"I have not discussed, directly or indirectly, another position. I have a position in government right now that keeps me occupied. Until I say otherwise, this is it."

The governor's term runs into Jan. 1963.

DiSalle took note of published reports that he was in line to succeed Abraham Ribicoff, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, if the former Connecticut governor should get a court appointment.

Ribicoff came to Ohio State University Hospital to complete a physical check-up after his wife underwent an operation there for a nasal condition.

The governor stressed that Ribicoff's appearance in Ohio came like "a bolt out of the blue." He explained that the Ribicoffs came to University Hospital so that a nationally known specialist could operate on Mrs. Ribicoff.

Ribicoff visited DiSalle at the mansion during that period, but the Ohio governor insisted that it was on the basis of friendship rather than to discuss future plans.

U.S. Seeks To Rally Support Against U.N. Seat for China

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States worked behind the scenes at the United Nations today, seeking support for a move to head off a General Assembly vote on Red China's bid for a U. N. seat.

With the assembly session at the halfway mark, the world body must act soon on the controversial Chinese seating issue placed on its agenda for the first time since the Communists took over the mainland in 1949.

Doubtful it had the votes to put across its usual proposal to shelve debate on China for another year, the United States voted this fall for a full airing of the seating question. Now U. S. diplomats are sounding out delegates, seeking support for another type of postponement proposal—creation of a special committee to study the China question and report back to the assembly next year.

The United States has made it plain it still opposes any move to oust the Nationalist Chinese and seat the Reds in their place. It has served notice it will fight the Soviet proposal that the assembly recognize the Peiping government as the lawful holder of the Chinese seat.

Western diplomats expressed confidence the United States has the voting support to dump the Chinese question into the lap of a committee even though the Communists and many Asian and African delegates will fight it as another attempt to shelve the issue.

Western observers also feel that with the widening breach between Peiping and Moscow, evidenced at the recent Soviet Communist party congress, the Soviets actually have little if any desire to see Red China admitted to the U. N.

The Russians are said to fear that Red China might try to move in as chief spokesman for the Communist bloc.

Monday the assembly by a vote of 71-20 adopted a proposal by India and five nonaligned nations urging voluntary moratorium on nuclear weapon tests. It was rejected by all the nuclear powers—the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said Kennedy and Nehru discussed both Laos and South Viet Nam in their first meeting Monday.

Nehru, a leader of the non-aligned nations, scheduled a mid-morning White House meeting with Kennedy today to discuss subjects ranging from Southeast Asia to Berlin to nuclear testing.

Their meeting ... Newport, R.I., Monday was the first chance for the two men to take each other's measure. The atmosphere was described as friendly. They flew here together from Kennedy's vacation headquarters.

On his arrival here, Nehru stressed a peaceful approach to the problems of the cold war.

"With us peace is a passion," he told Kennedy in an impromptu statement at Andrews Air Force Base.

The prime minister wished Kennedy "all success in his efforts to maintain peace and freedom in the world."

He also took note of recent U.S. criticism of Indian policies and said one purpose of his visit was to "explain what we have in our own minds."

Relationships between friendly countries, he said, are more basic than "temporary policies and events that happen."

Nehru Opposes U.S. Troop Use

India Chief, Kennedy Continue Conference

WASHINGTON (AP)—India Prime Minister Nehru was reported today to have strongly advised President Kennedy against sending U.S. combat troops to South Viet Nam.

Three weeks ago, when Kennedy dispatched his military adviser, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, to the Communist-besieged nation, there was wide speculation that Kennedy might send a U.S. force to South Viet Nam. When Taylor returned Friday he had no public word of support for sending troops.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said Kennedy and Nehru discussed both Laos and South Viet Nam in their first meeting Monday.

Reds May Close U.S. Berlin Gate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviets may close off the East Berlin crossing at the American zone any day now and reroute Allied traffic through a new crossing at the British sector, informed sources said today.

The three Western powers have not received intelligence reports about such a closing, the informants added, but they have observed construction material being brought to the vicinity of the checkpoint in East Berlin.

The ambassadorial group which meets at the State Department to draft contingency plans for Allied moves and countermoves in Berlin discussed this possibility last week.

The group—consisting of the ambassadors of Britain, France, and Germany with Foy D. Kohler, U. S. assistant secretary of state, presiding—has reached no decision.

Should the Soviets close "Checkpoint Charlie," the Friedrichstrasse crossing where American and Soviet tanks faced each other for about 16 tense hours in October, their chief reason would be to embarrass the United States. But, officials here believe, they also will put the British into an awkward situation.

Each of the three Allied powers has responded differently to the East Germans' demand for identification from Allied personnel entering East Berlin.

The Americans not only refused to comply but sent armed escorts through the gate whenever a U. S. official in civilian clothes drove to East Berlin.

The British showed their identification papers through the windows of their cars.

The French did not comply with the request but made no attempt to force their way into East Berlin.

If a new checkpoint is opened in the British sector, the British will be in charge. The necessity, therefore, to establish a uniform Western policy on how to react to this or any similar Communist demands is more acute than ever.

There are sharp differences of opinion in the Kennedy administration and in the ambassadorial group over what should be done if the crossing is changed, informants said.

Those who demanded last August that the West should prevent by force if necessary the building of the Berlin wall now say that the West should not tolerate another unilateral action by the Soviets.

Others are willing to accept the attitude of the British, who believe that since the West did not act when the wall was erected, there is nothing to be done now but to accept the changed circumstances—at least until they touch on vital interests.

Khrush Admits Tests Harmful

Soviet To Quit 'When Others Stop'

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev told a cluster of newsmen at a reception that the Soviet Union will drop nuclear testing "when the others stop."

Earlier today, he acknowledged that nuclear testing is harmful to health.

"We will stop when the others stop," Khrushchev said in answer to a question by correspondents. "If the West continues testing there will be more tests here."

This was a reflection of the Soviet device of blaming the West for beginning the testing of nuclear weapons, although actually the moratorium was broken by the Soviet Union.

To further questions at a party honoring the 44th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution, Khrushchev also said the Soviet Union does not want to hustle the West into a needlessly fast response on the Berlin question. But when asked how long the Soviet Union would wait he replied, "Not indefinitely."

Khrushchev also denied reports published in the West that three Soviet cosmonauts had been killed in mid-October in an attempted launching of a Sputnik. Moreover, he added, no immediate launching of another manned Sputnik is contemplated.

He conceded nuclear tests are harmful to health but insisted universal disarmament is the only answer.

"There is talk of the harmful effects of experimental nuclear explosion on peoples' health," the Soviet premier was quoted by the Soviet News agency Tass.

"Yes, it has been scientifically established that they are harmful to health."

"But the use of nuclear weapons in war is a million times more dangerous, not only for the peoples' health but for the very lives of people—for it is clear that these weapons are not being produced to be kept in storage."

Khrushchev said the Soviet Union would "be glad if it were possible not only not to test these weapons, but also to rid mankind of them entirely."

2 Big Blazes May Merge

200 Costly Homes Already Destroyed

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two disastrous fires threatened today to join and burn oceanward on a 10-mile front that officials said would threaten a whole new community — fashionable Pacific Palisades.

The major multimillion-dollar blaze—the worst in Southern California history—already had destroyed more than 200 costly homes including those of such film stars as Burt Lancaster, Joe E. Brown and Zsa Zsa Gabor. Ex-Vice President Richard M. Nixon was among those who fled the flames Monday.

The larger fire sprawled out of control today like an ugly, flaming crown in the Hollywood hills. Santa Monica Mountains range above swank Bel-Air and Brentwood.

Eating through Topanga Canyon's explosively dry brush during the night, a companion fire that also broke out Monday moved to within slightly more than a mile of the Bel-Air fire.

The Topanga fire had raged through 4,000 acres, the Bel-Air through 3,200. Only Rustic Canyon, which has a few expensive homes, separated the two.

Officials said the fires probably will join, forming a 10-mile flaming front. If they continue burning southward, all of heavily populated Pacific Palisades, near the ocean, would be in danger, the officials said. The two fires already were three or four miles from that community.

"We are making full preparations for the worst," said County Fire Chief Keith Klinger.

Men and equipment in large numbers moved into the southern end of the Topanga Canyon holocaust. Twenty-four bombers, 12

Ecuador Veep Is Arrested; Revolt Quelled

QUITO, Ecuador (AP)—A military uprising by an engineer regiment objecting to the arrest of leftist Vice President Carlos Arosemena was beaten down by loyal troops today in a seven-hour battle in the southern part of Quito.

The regiment rebelled and left its barracks early in the morning and took up positions on the southern flank of the capital. Its officers said they were supporting Arosemena who was being held with nine congressmen.

Arosemena, who appears to have backing of a majority in Congress, was arrested around midnight. Aides with him also were taken into custody and imprisoned in the federal penitentiary.

They offered no resistance when approached on the street by Gonzalo Jacone, director of national security, and informed they were under arrest.

The Chimborazo regiment of engineers rose as soon as news of the arrest spread. The soldiers marched out of their barracks in the southern part of the city with weapons ready.

Three air force planes took off from a base outside the city and flew over the city. It was not clear where they stood in the political fight between the two leaders, but they appeared to be making a reconnaissance.

8 Ohio VA Offices Slated To Close

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Veterans Administration plans to close its 161 one-man contact offices by the end of the year.

A spokesman said today affected employees will be absorbed to the extent possible in other VA activities and normal attrition is expected to provide places for most of them.

Remaining open will be 273 contact locations including 35 larger contact offices, 67 regional offices and 171 hospitals, with 767 contact officers and representatives, VA said.

The one-man offices to be closed Dec. 29 include: Ohio — Hamilton, Portsmouth, Springfield, Cambridge, Canton, Zanesville, Steubenville and Youngstown.

Relatives were visiting the Hannahs Sunday and when they left Dennis perched on the rear bumper. Mrs. Hannah raced after the car but couldn't catch it. She summoned police but they were unable to find the car on its route to Wrens, 32 miles away. A motorist in Wrens spotted Dennis and waved down the relatives.

5 Chimps Training for Space Trips

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Five frolicsome chimpanzees, including veteran space traveler Ham, and a rhesus monkey are training here for a pair of important rocket launchings.

One of the chimps is scheduled to spin into orbit within two weeks in the last scheduled Project Mercury trial flight before an American astronaut is lofted on an orbital mission.

The monkey, a radio transmitter and biomedical sensors imbedded in his body, is slated for a suborbital trip this week to determine feasibility of using implanted devices in human spacemen.

Ham is the freckle-faced chimp that rode a Redstone rocket 156 miles high on a 15-minute flight last January, blazing the trail for the suborbital space trips of Astronauts Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Virgil I. Grissom.

The orbit mission is intended to swing the Mercury capsule three times around the world in 4 hours at 17,400 miles an hour. This is the same course the National Aeronautics and Space Administration plans for the first orbit of a U.S. astronaut.

Bells Guide Blind Girl in School Band

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The girl marches briskly with the band down the football field, guided by two bells and the ringing courage of her heart.

The blazing floodlights never bring squints to Leah Russell's blue eyes; the floodlights are black to her.

"I have only one terrible fear," said Leah, 16, blind since birth. "I'm scared that sometime I may not hear the sound of the bell-players and I'll go marching off by myself—all alone, in the wrong direction. I would be so ashamed."

Almost three years ago Leah began studying the piccolo, painstakingly putting the music into Braille. Last year her Southwest Miami High band director, Marvin Mockabee, welcomed her into his 64-member unit.

"As a sitting member only," said Mockabee, "she practiced with us, played in concerts, but I was afraid to try her out as a marcher."

Ex-President Of Russia Is Rebuffed

MOSCOW (AP)—Former President Klementi Y. Voroshilov was rebuffed today when he tried to force himself onto the Lenin mausoleum reviewing stand for the parade celebrating the 44th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

The 80-year-old marshal, who has been among those taking the salute from atop the tomb every year since the parades began, was denounced at the recent 22nd congress of the Soviet Communist party as a Stalinist.

He apologized for his sins and Premier Khrushchev said he forgave him. But forgiveness did not get him his former place of honor overlooking Red Square.

Dressed in a black overcoat and a black astrakhan hat, Voroshilov moved slowly through the square just before the parade began. An officer in the elaborate blue and gold uniform of the Moscow garrison barred his way near the entrance to the tomb. The marshal argued and gesticulated broadly. The officer just kept shrugging his shoulders.

Eventually the old marshal, a former army commander, was allowed to enter the tomb. There he argued again with men in civilian clothes.

After a few minutes he was escorted out by two men in dark blue overcoats and green plush hats, the usual uniform of the secret police.

Youths Walk Out On Sexy Drama

WASHINGTON (AP)—"This is no play for 16-year-olds," said the lady school principal from New Jersey after marching 146 teenagers out of the National Theater during the opening of "Sunday in New York."

For a few minutes, Monday night's mass walkout stole the scene from the Broadway-bound comedy.

Principal Margaret Walsh of Sayreville, N. J., who brought the youngsters to Washington on their senior class trip, told a reporter later, "We just came out because it was the right thing to do."

The exodus came about 10 minutes before the curtain fell on the first act of the show, a comedy about sex.

Nehru Opposes U.S. Troop Use

India Chief, Kennedy Continue Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — India Prime Minister Nehru was reported today to have strongly advised President Kennedy against sending U.S. combat troops to South Viet Nam.

Three weeks ago, when Kennedy dispatched his military adviser, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, to the Communist-besieged nation, there was wide speculation that Kennedy might send a U.S. force to South Viet Nam. When Taylor returned Friday he had no public word of support for sending troops.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said Kennedy and Nehru discussed both Laos and South Viet Nam in their first meeting Monday.

Nehru, a leader of the non-aligned nations, scheduled a mid-morning White House meeting with Kennedy today to discuss subjects ranging from Southeast Asia to Berlin to nuclear testing.

Their meeting — Newport, R.I. Monday was the first chance for the two men to take each other's measure. The atmosphere was described as friendly. They flew here together from Kennedy's vacation headquarters.

On his arrival here, Nehru stressed a peaceful approach to the problems of the cold war.

"With us peace is a passion," he told Kennedy in an impromptu statement at Andrews Air Force Base.

The prime minister wished Kennedy "all success in his efforts to maintain peace and freedom in the world."

He also took note of recent U.S. criticism of Indian policies and said one purpose of his visit was to "explain what we have in our own minds."

Relationships between friendly countries, he said, are more basic than "temporary policies and events that happen."

Collegians Continue Bomb Protest

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP)—About 40 college students are camping in a farm field to protest against nuclear weapons testing.

Two tents, other camping equipment and foodstuffs have been contributed by sympathizers.

The students from nearby Delta College began their "sit-in" in a cornfield not far from the college last Saturday noon.

They work it by relays—a few at a time for a few hours—around the clock. The sit-in will continue until noon Saturday.

The students bundle up against the cold and the Bay County sheriff's department keeps an eye out for their safety.

The group is chaperoned by Janet Stevens of Saginaw who brings her two children.

Bernard F. Heidman, 21, of Bay City, organizer of the sit-in, said he and fellow students thought up the idea as a means to encourage public opposition to bomb testing.

Marlene Waltman said some parents have objected.

"That's just the trouble—getting people to take this (nuclear testing) seriously," Marlene said. "They're just concerned with their own little problems."

Reds May Close U.S. Berlin Gate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviets may close off the East Berlin crossing at the American zone any day now and reroute Allied traffic through a new crossing at the British sector, informed sources said today.

The three Western powers have not received intelligence reports about such a closing, the informants added, but they have observed construction material being brought to the vicinity of the checkpoint in East Berlin.

The ambassadorial group which meets at the State Department to draft contingency plans for Allied moves and countermoves in Berlin discussed this possibility last week. The group—consisting of the ambassadors of Britain, France, and Germany with Foy D. Kohler, U. S. assistant secretary of state, presiding—has reached no decision.

Should the Soviets close "Checkpoint Charlie," the Friedrichstrasse crossing where American and Soviet tanks faced each other for about 16 tense hours in October, their chief reason will be to embarrass the United States. But, officials here believe, they also will put the British into an awkward situation.

Each of the three Allied powers has responded differently to the East Germans' demand for identification from Allied personnel entering East Berlin.

The Americans not only refused to comply but sent armed escorts through the gate whenever a U. S. official in civilian clothes drove to East Berlin.

The British showed their identification papers through the windows of their cars.

The French did not comply with the request but made no attempt to force their way into East Berlin.

If a new checkpoint is opened in the British sector, the British will be in charge. The necessity, therefore, to establish a uniform Western policy on how to react to this or any similar Communist demands is more acute than ever.

There are sharp differences of opinion in the Kennedy administration and in the ambassadorial group over what should be done if the crossing is changed, informants said.

Those who demanded last August that the West should prevent by force if necessary the building of the Berlin wall now

Big Flattop Hit By Blaze Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Flames flashed through the machinery room of the hard-luck U.S.S. Constellation, taking the lives of four men and injuring nine others as the sleek new aircraft carrier cruised on its trial run.

The Navy said the ship—hit by a major blaze in drydock that killed 50 men last December—suffered only minor damage in Monday's fire. The blaze broke out when fuel oil apparently was accidentally sprayed onto a hot steam line.

The Constellation, newest and largest of the Navy's carriers, was due to arrive in New York tonight after its cruise off the southeastern U.S. coast.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's news conference Wednesday will be in 4 p.m. EST. The White House announced Monday. There will be no live radio or TV coverage.

Crow Is Winner In Court Appeal

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — The Third District Court of Appeals has reversed the contempt of court conviction of disgraced attorney J. Harvey Crow of Urbana.

Crow had been sentenced to 10 days in the Union County jail at Marysville by Common Pleas Judge Gwynn Sanders last April. Judge Sanders found that Crow had prepared, signed and filed an official paper for Earl H. Moore Jr., a Dayton attorney.

The appellate court said there was no evidence Crow didn't have permission to act as Moore's agent. It found error prejudicial to Crow and dismissed the proceeding against him, including the jail sentence.

Crow became an attorney in 1927, was disbarred in 1935, reinstated in 1950 and disbarred again in 1956.

2 Big Blazes May Merge

200 Costly Homes Already Destroyed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two disastrous fires threatened today to join and burn oceanward on a 10-mile front that officials said would threaten a whole new community — fashionable Pacific Palisades.

The major multimillion-dollar blaze—the worst in Southern California history—already had destroyed more than 200 costly homes including those of such film stars as Burt Lancaster, Joe E. Brown and Zsa Zsa Gabor. Ex-Vice President Richard M. Nixon was among those who fled the flames Monday.

The larger fire sprawled out of control today like an ugly, flaming crown in the Hollywood hills-Santa Monica Mountains range above swank Bel-Air and Brentwood.

Eating through Topanga Canyon's explosively dry brush during the night, a companion fire that also broke out Monday moved to within slightly more than a mile of the Bel-Air fire.

The Topanga fire had raged through 4,000 acres, the Bel-Air through 3,200. Only Rustic Canyon, which has a few expensive homes, separated the two.

Officials said the fires probably will join, forming a 10-mile flaming front. If they continue burning southward, all of heavily populated Pacific Palisades, near the ocean, would be in danger, the officials said. The two fires already were only three or four miles from that community.

"We are making full preparations for the worst," said County Fire Chief Keith Klinger.

Vice-Probing Grand Jury Adds to Staff

CINCINNATI (AP)—The federal grand jury has added a reporter to its clerical staff taking down testimony in the investigation of numbers racket activities in the greater Cincinnati area.

The grand jury started its probing Thursday with two court reporters. The probe began after the panel had disposed of routine cases.

The jurors heard testimony Monday from nine witnesses. Three witnesses — one man and two women — were not identified. None would comment on their testimony and about all the federal officials would say was that the witnesses were scared.

Witnesses included Morris Weintraub, Newport, Ky., attorney and former Kentucky state legislator; Willard J. Whitney, 54, Cincinnati, manager of the Sportsman's Club at Newport; Beauford Gilley, 63, cashier at the Sportsman's Club; Louis Tye, 37, clerk at the Sportsman's Club; Hubert Sims, Newport, and Charles Houston, Cincinnati.

Federal agents raided the Sportsman's Club last August and seized a large quantity of numbers racket equipment. Agents said after the raid the club's many phones rang all the time they were inside, with people asking which number had won that day.

Sad Song Proves Happy for Sextet

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico (AP)—If a horse could sing, you might say that one named Sad Song sang a happy tune for Guy Diaz and his five friends.

Sad Song can't sing, but he can run. He won the 10th race at Caliente Sunday, and Diaz, 38, and his friends had him picked.

They also tabbed the five previous races, enabling them to cash in a pool ticket worth $72,127. Diaz, of Michoacan, Mexico, and in recent months a contract farm laborer (bracero) in the United States, collected the money Monday. He and his friends plan to buy a chicken ranch.

Nearly Half Of Draftees Are Rejected

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Almost half of all draftees called up for selective service examinations were rejected for physical or mental reasons in the fiscal year ending last June, says a Defense Department spokesman.

Edward L. Katzenbach, deputy assistant secretary of defense, listed the rejection figure as 45.7 per cent in a talk Monday to a Dayton television audience.

Speaking via telephone, Katzenbach emphasized that of the half-million men who entered military service during the period cited, less than 100,000 were draftees. And, he added, when the draftees are combined with volunteers for service, the rejection percentage drops to 33 per cent.

Col. Raymond Clouse, Ohio selective service director who also appeared on the program, said the high percentage of disqualifications was due to stricter standards, compared with requirements during the Korean War and World War II.

for each fire, were loaded for daylight bombing of the flames with a fire-retarding borate solution.

Minor injuries to 10 firemen in the Bel-Air fire were reported.

The Weather Bureau predicted gusty northeast winds, decreasing slowly, in the mountains and below coastal canyons today.

More than 2,000 persons had been evacuated from one of the nation's richest residential areas. Residents leaving the area with armloads of possessions, leading horses, pets and children, suggested refugees fleeing from war.

Wild animals scrambled along Beverly Glen Boulevard. Flames had ravaged their native haunts.

Magnates, movie stars, school children and housewives fled from homes and classrooms to escape the blaze Monday. Fire officials called it the most damaging in Southern California history.

Nixon, whose rented home escaped the flames, said: "I have seen trouble all over the world, but nothing like this."

Some of the movie stars' homes reportedly cost more than $100,000.

The main fire is in rugged, mountainous terrain extending westward to the sea and dividing the San Fernando Valley from Los Angeles and its western suburbs. The sprawling blaze is roughly 10 miles northwest of downtown Los Angeles and three miles northwest of Beverly Hills. Brentwood, Bel-Air and the Hollywood hills are suburban communities.

Deer Killed North of Here

An unidentified motorist struck and killed a deer at noon yesterday about a mile north of South Boulevard on Route 23, near the Roadside Park. The animal was a doe.

Sheriff Walton W. Spangler said yesterday's incident was the second traffic killing of a deer within the past week at the same location.

A fawn was struck by an auto in about the same vicinity last week.

Sheriff Spangler and deputies removed the deer and immediately delivered it to a local locker plant for butchering.

However, the attempt was to no avail. The animal had been dead too long.

Nearly Half Of Draftees Are Rejected

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Almost half of all draftees called up for selective service examinations were rejected for physical or mental reasons in the fiscal year ending last June, says a Defense Department spokesman.

Edward L. Katzenbach, deputy assistant secretary of defense, listed the rejection figure as 45.7 per cent in a talk Monday to a Dayton television audience.

Speaking via telephone, Katzenbach emphasized that of the half-million men who entered military service during the period cited, less than 100,000 were draftees. And, he added, when the draftees are combined with volunteers for service, the rejection percentage drops to 33 per cent.

Col. Raymond Clouse, Ohio selective service director who also appeared on the program, said the high percentage of disqualifications was due to stricter standards, compared with requirements during the Korean War and World War II.

2 Big Blazes

for each fire, were loaded for daylight bombing of the flames with a fire-retarding borate solution.

Minor injuries to 10 firemen in the Bel-Air fire were reported.

The Weather Bureau predicted gusty northeast winds, decreasing slowly, in the mountains and below coastal canyons today.

More than 2,000 persons had been evacuated from one of the nation's richest residential areas. Residents leaving the area with armloads of possessions, leading horses, pets and children, suggested refugees fleeing from war.

Wild animals scrambled along Beverly Glen Boulevard. Flames had ravaged their native haunts.

Magnates, movie stars, school children and housewives fled from homes and classrooms to escape the blaze Monday. Fire officials called it the most damaging in Southern California history.

Nixon, whose rented home escaped the flames, said: "I have seen trouble all over the world, but nothing like this."

Some of the movie stars' homes reportedly cost more than $100,000.

The main fire is in rugged, mountainous terrain extending westward to the sea and dividing the San Fernando Valley from Los Angeles and its western suburbs. The sprawling blaze is roughly 10 miles northwest of downtown Los Angeles and three miles northwest of Beverly Hills. Brentwood, Bel-Air and the Hollywood hills are suburban communities.

Deer Killed North of Here

An unidentified motorist struck and killed a deer at noon yesterday about a mile north of South Bloomfield on Route 23, near the Roadside Park. The animal was a doe. Sheriff Walton W. Spangler said yesterday's incident was the second traffic killing of a deer within the past week at the same location.

A fawn was struck by an auto in about the same vicinity last week.

Sheriff Spangler and deputies removed the deer and immediately delivered it to a local locker plant for butchering.

However, the attempt was to no avail. The animal had been dead too long.

Now playing all over town in a run scheduled to last about two more weeks is an annual fall festival whose artistic splendor remains one of the Midwest's most alluring arguments against living anywhere else.

Cast into this pageantry of pigmentation are you and I, anyone pausing a moment to sense the powerful charms of the master producer, Dame Nature.

Reds run riot in a blaze of setting sun. Crimson hues crash against burnished golds in a delicious fantasy of swirling color.

Along the avenues and byways, on sidewalks and in front of business houses the breeze sings of siren song — "Love me now, the cold of winter will all too soon be here." Before snow and ice chill the romance of autumn, though, these few days of colorful beauty are at hand to lighten all hearts.

Trees have all but bared their branches to endure the winter; in the streets there are still the moments of summer days — and the leaves swirl sweetness and sorrow together in a full, final chorus of fall.

Adult Students Cram Colleges

Million Part-Timers
Counted in Survey

CLEVELAND (AP)—Adult students are flocking to colleges in record numbers for part-time courses and are playing a big part in the post-war college enrollment boom.

That was the word from delegates to the convention of the Association of University Evening Colleges (AUEC), meeting here.

Leaders in the AUEC referred to the adult enrollment, which has grown from almost nothing 25 years ago, as "one of the post-war phenomena" of college development.

The 141 U.S. and Canadian institutions who belong to the AUEC have total part-time enrollments of nearly one million.

Most of these students, according to Richard A. Matre, AUEC president, are adults who failed to complete their college education while in the normal age bracket. Now they have decided they would have much better opportunities in life with at least some college education, said Matre, dean of the University College at Loyola University, Chicago.

Then there are graduate students who feel the need for more study to keep up with rapid increase in technology or who want to broaden their knowledge. Other groups include graduate students taking education courses to qualify for teaching certificates and employees in industry who seek to increase their technical knowledge.

Many of the latter get partial or full financial aid from their employers.

Five Northern Ohio schools — Akron University, Baldwin - Wallace College, Fenn College, John Carroll University and Western Reserve University — were hosts at a social hour opening the convention Sunday night. Some 200 educators are taking part in the meetings, which will continue through Thursday.

'Minute Men' Plan Conferences

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The leader of a group known as Minute Men, intended for civil defense in event of a Communist invasion or takeover, plans a 10-day series of meetings with followers on the West Coast.

Robert B. DePugh said the wildcat organizations only purpose is to promote civil defense at the grass roots and to train civilians in event of war or insurrection.

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown last week called the Minute Men guerrilla bands and estimated they have 2,500 members in California.

DePugh said at his home in Norborne, Mo., he will hold meetings this week in Los Angeles, San Diego, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, Tucson and Phoenix.

DiSalle Checks Locker Club Legality; Aide Is Member

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Liquor Director Richard C. Crouch admits he has been a member of a Dayton "locker club" the past eight years. So Gov. Michael V. DiSalle wants to know if there's a difference between that and the "bottle clubs" which Crouch has denounced as prohibition era "speak-easys."

DiSalle said Monday night that "bottle clubs" are illegal because they are "operated without permit: in selling liquor over the bar."

The governor was asked, then, if "locker clubs" weren't illegal also?

"This is the thing I wanted to check," said DiSalle, explaining why he wants to talk to Crouch. "I don't know the method of operation and the distinction the liquor department makes."

Generally, a private "bottle club" is one in which the bartender stores a member's liquor with the member's name on it until the member asks for it. Ivan Smith, state liquor enforcement chief, was quoted as saying last spring, "A locker system or bottle club eventually must have money running from the consumer of liquor to the operator of the club. When you have that, it's bootlegging."

Crouch was quoted by the Cleveland Plain Dealer as replying in a letter that he has been—and still is—a member of the Dayton Club, Inc. He described it as "a locker club which utilizes a true locker system; that is, individual members purchase their own alcoholic beverages, personally transport such alcoholic beverages to the club location and store the beverages in their individual locker, to which the member retains possession of the only key suitable for opening the locker."

"There is no bar on the premises," Crouch continued, "and the bottles are not labeled by the management with the name of the member."

The liquor director's letter, the Plain Dealer said, went to Clarence D. Welsh, identified as being associated with a bomb shelter firm.

Welsh, according to the newspaper, said Crouch's answer to his question gives him the go-ahead signal to rent a downtown Cleveland building for display purposes, and start a locker club in the basement shelter.

"We will place lockers there with protective clothing to guard against (atomic) fallout," Welsh was quoted as saying. "If the members of the club want to bring their own bottles to keep in their lockers, that will be their business. If the liquor director can do it, so can we."

Crouch was not immediately available for comment.

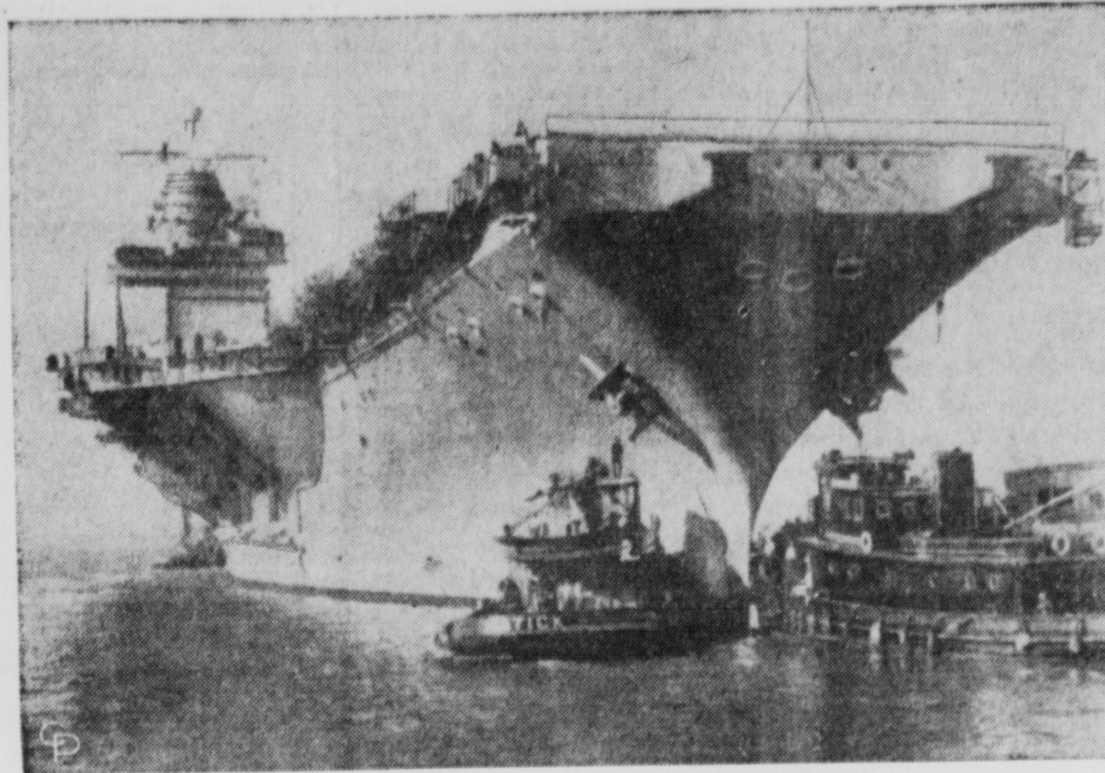

The Plain Dealer reported that Crouch said last May he was issuing a special directive to crack down on all "bottle clubs."

"They are the old speak-easy of prohibition days returned," the newspaper quoted him as saying then. "Even when they start out legally these bottle clubs don't stay that way long. Soon the bartender is buying the liquor and selling it and that's the speak-easy."

DiSalle said there has been "some activity on the part of the liquor department in the Cleveland area on bottle clubs, so I was going to talk to Dick (Crouch) to see what the difference is (between them and locker clubs)."

Adult Students Cram Colleges

Million Part-Timers
Counted in Survey

CLEVELAND (AP)—Adult students are flocking to colleges in record numbers for part-time courses and are playing a big part in the post-war college enrollment boom.

That was the word from delegates to the convention of the Association of University Evening Colleges (AUEC), meeting here.

Leaders in the AUEC referred to the adult enrollment, which has grown from almost nothing 25 years ago, as "one of the post-war phenomena" of college development.

The 141 U.S. and Canadian institutions who belong to the AUEC have total part-time enrollments of nearly one million.

Most of these students, according to Richard A. Matre, AUEC president, are adults who failed to complete their college education while in the normal age bracket. Now they have decided they would have much better opportunities in life with at least some college education, said Matre, dean of the University College at Loyola University, Chicago.

Then there are graduate students who feel the need for more study to keep up with rapid increase in technology or who want to broaden their knowledge. Other groups include graduate students taking education courses to qualify for teaching certificates and employees in industry who seek to increase their technical knowledge.

Many of the latter get partial or full financial aid from their employers.

Five Northern Ohio schools — Akron University, Baldwin — Wallace College, Fenn College, John Carroll University and Western Reserve University — were hosts at a social hour opening the convention Sunday night. Some 200 educators are taking part in the meetings, which will continue through Thursday.

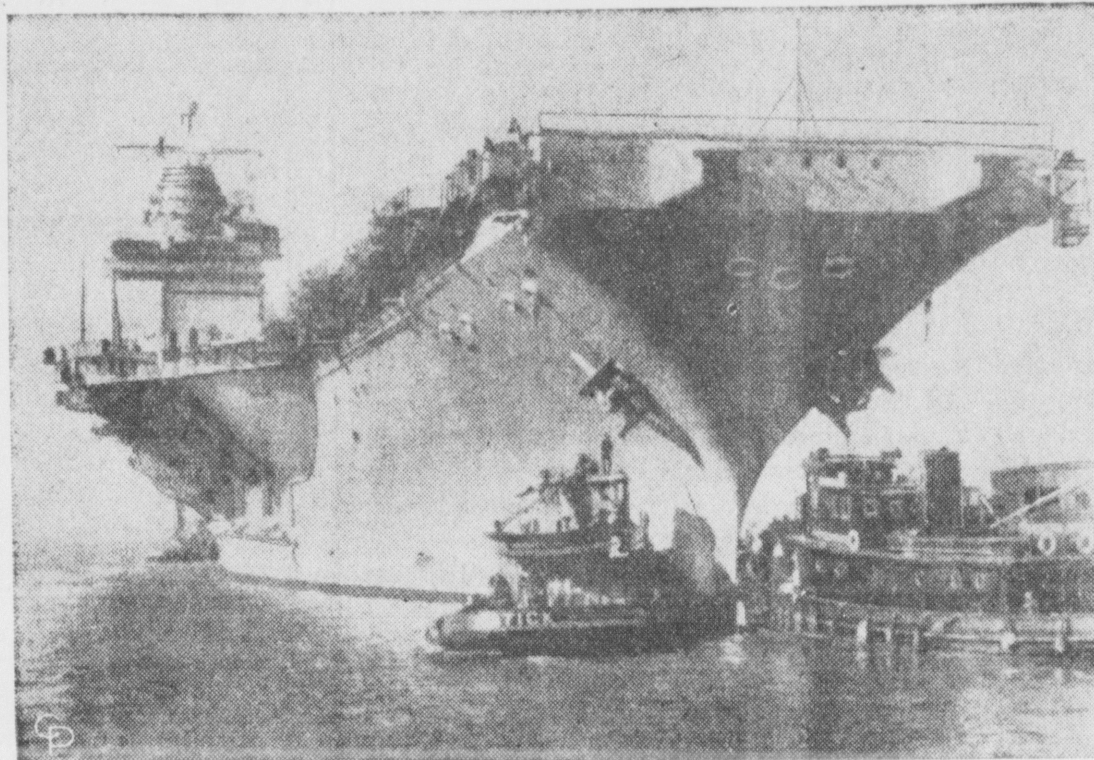

'Minute Men' Plan Conferences

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The leader of a group known as Minute Men, intended for civil defense in event of a Communist invasion or takeover, plans a 10-day series of meetings with followers on the West Coast.

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown last week called the Minute Men guerrilla bands and estimated they have 2,500 members in California.

DePugh said at his home in Norborne, Mo., he will hold meetings this week in Los Angeles, San Diego, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, Tucson and Phoenix.

DiSalle Checks Locker Club Legality; Aide Is Member

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Liquor Director Richard C. Crouch admits he has been a member of a Dayton "locker club" the past eight years. So Gov. Michael V. DiSalle wants to know if there's a difference between that and the "bottle clubs" which Crouch has denounced as prohibition era "speak-easys."

DiSalle said Monday night that "bottle clubs" are illegal because they are "operated without permit in selling liquor over the bar."

The governor was asked, then, if "locker clubs" weren't illegal also?

"This is the thing I wanted to check," said DiSalle, explaining why he wants to talk to Crouch. "I don't know the method of operation and the distinction the liquor department makes."

Generally, a private "bottle club" is one in which the bartender stores a member's liquor with the member's name on it until the member asks for it.

Ivan Smith, state liquor enforcement chief, was quoted as saying last spring, "A locker system, or bottle club eventually must have money running from the consumer of liquor to the operator of the club. When you have that, it's bootlegging."

Crouch was quoted by the Cleveland Plain Dealer as replying in a letter that he has been—and still is—a member of the Dayton Club, Inc. He described it as "a locker club which utilizes a true locker system; that is, individual members purchase their own alcoholic beverages, personally transport such alcoholic beverages to the club location and store the beverages in their individual locker, to which the member retains possession of the only key suitable for opening the locker.

"There is no bar on the premises," Crouch continued, "and the bottles are not labeled by the management with the name of the member."

The liquor director's letter, the Plain Dealer said, went to Clarence D. Welsh, identified as being associated with a bomb shelter firm.

Welsh, according to the newspaper, said Crouch's answer to his question gives him the go-ahead signal to rent a downtown Cleveland building for display purposes, and start a locker club in the basement shelter.

"We will place lockers there with protective clothing to guard against (atomic) fallout," Welsh was quoted as saying. "If the members of the club want to bring their own bottles to keep in their lockers, that will be their business. If the liquor director can do it, so can we."

Crouch was not immediately available for comment.

The Plain Dealer reported that Crouch said last May he was issuing a special directive to crack down on all "bottle clubs."

"They are the old speak-easy of prohibition days returned," the newspaper quoted him as saying then. "Even when they start out legally these bottle clubs don't stay that way long. Soon the bartender is buying the liquor and selling it and that's the speak-easy."

DiSalle said there has been "some activity on the part of the liquor department in the Cleveland area on bottle clubs, so I was going to talk to Dick (Crouch) to see what the difference is (between them and locker clubs)."

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook: Bright, dry weather is indicated for all Ohio today.

The early morning weather was clear and frosty. Temperatures dipped into the 20s over the central and western counties, and held in the lower 30s over the east. Columbus reported one of the lowest temperatures with a reading of 25 degrees. Cincinnati had 29, Marietta 33 and Toledo 27.

A combination of southerly winds and some sunshine today is expected to raise the temperature to around the 50 degree mark during the afternoon.

The morning weather map shows high pressure covering Ohio. However, a weak cold front located over Wisconsin and Iowa is moving toward Ohio. The passage of this front Wednesday is expected to result in cloudy skies, possibly attended by some light showers or snow flurries near Lake Erie.

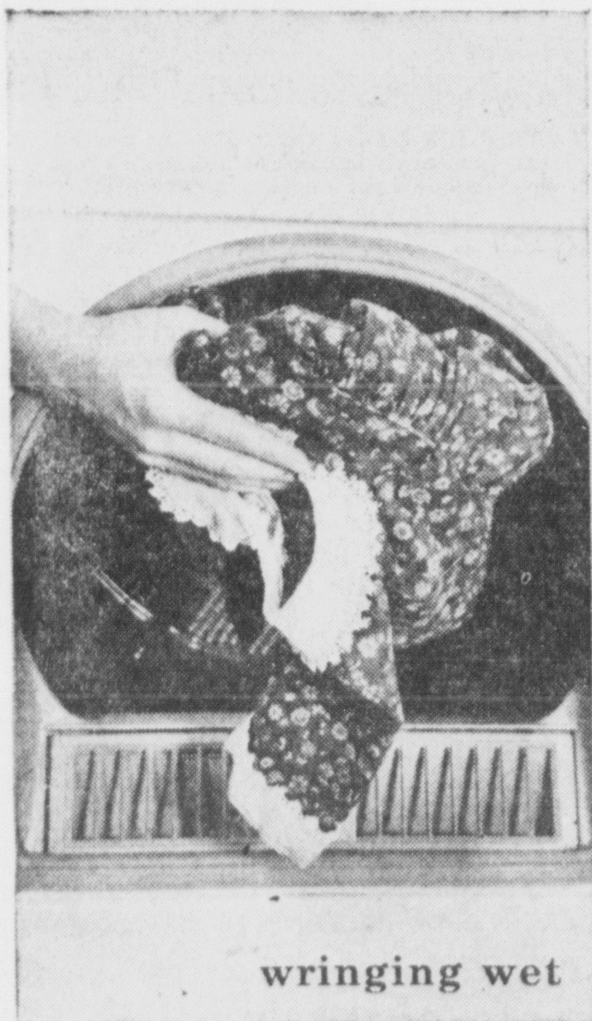

Toledo Lawyer To Get Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed today to hear an appeal by Merritt W. Green II, a Toledo lawyer, who got a jail sentence for telling a union to disobey a state court order prohibiting picketing.

Green was sentenced to 10 days and also fined $500 by Judge John M. McCabe of Lucas County.

McCabe has issued an order against picketing of the Toledo Marine Terminal by the International Longshoremen's Association. The order was issued in May, 1960, without a hearing and at the request of the terminal company's lawyer.

Green contended the union could ignore the order because the labor controversy involved was a matter solely for action against Green was upheld by the Ohio Supreme Court.

For six years, an unusual group of University of California scientists has been conducting research in one of the oldest mysteries of the human intellect. It has been trying to ascertain what personality, hereditary or biological factors combine to make a creative person.

The group's studies have been limited almost entirely to analysis of creative traits possessed by 530 recognized leaders in contemporary American art, science and industry. Although complete results have not been compiled, sufficient knowledge of general conditions of creativity has been accumulated for the Institute of Personality and Assessment and Research to make these observations:

Creative persons are intelligent — but not necessarily to an extraordinary degree — independent, curious, skeptical, emotionally committed to their work, energetic, aesthetically sensitive, introverted, nonconformist, sometimes egotistical and frequently obsessed by a "sense of destiny."

Most of these traits fit the classical image of creativity, but the institute has found some to be overrated. Intelligence

Girl Bachelors Enumerated

NEW YORK (AP)—Every big office is a land of girls.

Some are married girls. Some are bachelorettes. No one is an "old maid." There is no such thing as an old maid anymore.

They are bachelorettes. Vintage bachelorettes may be, but still bachelorettes.

Bachelorettes, in most cases, don't become bachelorettes on purpose. They are born that way — and haven't as yet been able to do anything to change the situation.

To the average middle-aged male inhabitant of a swivel chair, all office maidens in the senographic pool look as much alike as trout in a babbling brook. They dress the same, talk the same, and nibble the same sandwiches at lunch.

But if he looks carefully at them, a thoughtful observer can note many differences.

Here are a few typical bachelorettes you can recognize in almost any office:

Romantic Roberta—She keeps a picture of Cary Grant on her desk because, she explains, "He reminds me so awfully much of the kind of man I never get to meet."

Hopeful Helen—When she was

Something To Think About

On July 24, 1951, Bernard Baruch, speaking at the Lord Mayor's Dinner in London, gave the British something to think about. Now, a decade later, what Baruch said has proved to be prophetic in many respects. I quote:

"Many have complained that heretofore we came only after war commenced. That criticism can no longer be levelled at us. We have already given of our resources. We have considerable forces here to join in the common European defense. These will increase. I do not and cannot speak for my government. But I would be less than frank if I did not tell you what I think and what the majority of Americans think too. Unless the peoples of Europe unite and quickly give their full support to General Eisenhower in his efforts to bring about a common defense, you cannot count on America's economic and military aid continuing. We will meet more than generously whatever Europeans do. If you show no hesitation and undertake your full share, we will go to the limit. Then the burdens will be less for all concerned."

It is unfortunate that many Europeans, particularly Britishers who do not know this country and its people, fail to realize that every word that Bernard Baruch said is current public opinion in this country. Our people are very tired of carrying the heavy burden of military and economic aid, particularly as we have discovered that those whom we help most display the least gratitude; that they assume that we are morally and politically obligated to aid them; that if we do not come to their assistance, we shall be isolated and lose a leadership that we really do not care for. If the British or the French prefer to lead the world let them do it.

Europeans tend to assume that international leadership holds a great attractiveness to Americans. It may be a few political leaders who bask in the sun of alien applause. It may excite the egotism of some American diplomats who believe in their own greatness because foreigners speak well of them.

But, by and large, the American people find this leadership a bore. It means next to nothing that Soapy Williams is applauded in Africa or Adlai Stevenson speaks to all the great men of Latin America. It does not even excite our people that the Europeans find that our President and his wife are well-mannered and wear appropriate clothes and can speak French to a cook.

None of this appeals to an American as significant. The experience of leadership has not been pleasant or remunerative. The destruction of the Dutch, British and French Empires, which represents the specific mark of American leadership in international affairs, has brought us nothing. We have gained neither prestige nor profits from the confusion which followed this cataclysm and we are now faced with a United Nations of 103 members, most of whom are incapable of supporting themselves economically and whose demands on us is a necessary asset, but it seldom reaches the level of genius in persons who have demonstrated their ability to create. To the contrary, the threshold of creativity seems to center upon an I. Q. of 120, with little difference in performance noted in individuals of higher intelligence.

To the delight of students the institute also found school grades to be a poor gauge of creativity. Among those who have been successful in various fields requiring a higher degree of education, grades were discovered — somewhat embarrassingly — to be nothing more than average. Architects interviewed by the institute attained B averages in college, and research scientists ranged between B and C.

Some of the other traits, principally dedication to a particular pursuit and antagonism to regimentation, appear to be more valuable assets to creativity than a high degree of intelligence.

Which is nothing more than saying that the combination of some degree of talent and a strong urge to apply it offsets many lesser attributes which frequently receive greater attention. Creativity is not born — it, too, is created.

Inside You and Yours

By BURTON H. FERN, M.D.

What's the best remedy for a winter cough? Sometimes something to make you cough more! With a jet of compressed air, each explosive cough blasts dripping mucus up the air passage. You inhale, clamp your vocal cords shut and exhale. Chest muscles tighten until you feel like an unopened tube of toothpaste squeezed in a giant fist.

Suddenly the vocal cords open and air thunders up the passage, whisking along everything in its path. Inflammation inside a clear air passage can tickle sensitive nerve endings and trigger explosive, useless coughs.

Because ear and throat nerves share common roots, signals are often confused. An ear infection, wax pushing on the drum, even a tickling wisp of hair in the outer ear canal may trigger a cough.

Some coughs signal serious trouble; if coughing persists, call your doctor.

Meanwhile, stop annoying, useless coughs! They tire you out. Soothe raw nerve endings by coating irritated membrane with syrupy cough medicines. Honey — with or without lemon juice — works well.

Other drugs, like codeine, numb the brain's automatic cough control center. A giant dose paralyzes the center; smaller doses merely weaken the cough.

By whisking away choking mucus, valuable productive coughs help prevent bronchitis and pneumonia. Chemicals like guaifacinate or iodine make air passages "sweat". Soon this lubrication thins all thick mucus.

Many cough medicines combine all three benefits—soothing syrup, cough center control and mucus moistening. Steam — in the bathroom or by the vaporizer — can also water down stubborn mucus before blast-off. Special inhaled detergents make water wetter when mucus won't moisten.

Keep gravity on your side. Lie face down, with your head slightly lower than your chest. Mucus should pour out like ketchup from a half-empty bottle.

Control winter coughs as easily as summer coughs. The two resemble each other. There's really only one major difference—six months!

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

Las Vegas To Be Center For U.S. Gambling Probe

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The U.S. Justice Department has picked Las Vegas as the launching site for a new drive against national crime syndicates.

The chairman of the State Gaming Control Board, Ed Olsen of Reno, immediately promised to support the drive. But he said the Washington announcement of the investigation sounded "just a little bit sensational."

Justice Department officials in Washington announced Sunday Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has ordered a systematic investigation to determine: (1) The extent to which syndicated crime leaders are using Las Vegas as a meeting place; (2) Whether a race track wire service is being run here for bookmakers throughout the country; (3) The backgrounds of some gambling casino operators.

Olsen said the attorney general has been interested in Nevada for some time "and we've been working in close cooperation with Mr. Kennedy."

"The state is just as interested in uprooting racketeers—if any are here—as he is," Olsen said.

Olsen said his agents—more than 50 of them—"Keep track of national underworld figures that come to Las Vegas."

Sails for Rent Is Newest Idea for Vacation Funnery

By JAMES H. WINCHESTER
Central Press Association
Correspondent

MIAMI, Fla. — Sails for rent are the newest thing for vacation fun in the sun.

This new type holiday — either on pre-planned cruises covering regular itineraries or on a plan-it-yourself basis — are zooming in popularity in Florida and Caribbean waters. They provide all the comforts of a resort vacation, plus mobility, together with the thrill of exploring and discovering islands and beaches and offbeat ports on your own.

Yachts for hire, with accommodations for from two to a dozen people, range in size from 22 feet to 136 feet. Some have only one crewman, others have eight or nine.

The windjammers — and most of the boats for charter are sail-powered, although many have auxiliary motors — serve as private hotels. In cost, yacht chartering, or just cruising on one of the regular windjammer trips, runs between $22 and $40 a day per person, depending on the appointments and size of the boat.

The charge includes everything — meals, drinks, sightseeing. For instance, one yacht, sailing out of the Virgin Islands and sleeping six guests, charges for an all-expense $1,194 a week. This breaks down to $26 a day per person, a very favorable rate when compared to resort hotel costs in the same area.

The sailing season in Caribbean waters is generally considered to be January through March, with the winds strongest in January and February. However, the waters are apt to be rougher then than at other times. The ardent sailor don't mind this, of course. But those who want smoother sailing usually pick April, May or November.

Principal centers for these windjammer charters and cruises are Barbados, St. Lucia, the Virgin Islands and the Miami area. Barbados, for example, is home port for a variety of charter yachts. Among these is the luxurious Charlotta, which accommodates 10 guests.

On the first of each month, this 100-foot motorized sailing vessel leaves Barbados for a 21-day cruise to Grenada, the Grenadines and St. Vincent. The daily charge is $35 per person.

For those who don't mind roughing it, low-rate passage to the islands of the South Caribbean is available out of Barbados aboard a number of two-masted cargo schooners. These vessels sail frequently for neighboring islands and their rates are extremely cheap. One-way passage, for example, from Barbados to St. Lucia is a low $6.

The Bahamas — most frequently visited by windjammers operated from Miami — are ideal for sailing. There is plenty of deep water for off-shore cruising, as well as numerous protected anchorages. It's common practice to sail by night and anchor each day

Romantic Roberta—She keeps a picture of Cary Grant on her desk because, she explains, "He reminds me so awfully much of the kind of man I never get to meet."

Hopeful Helen—When she was 12 her mother gave her a piggy bank and said, "Put a dime in it every day so you'll be able to buy a nice tressou." Helen did. Now her apartment is so full of piggy banks it looks like a miniature version of the Chicago stockyards. The banks hold enough dimes to buy not only a tressou but a department store.

Hopeless Hilda—"I've met a lot of marrying men," she wails. "The trouble is they were already married. All the good ones are gone."

Opportunistic Opal—She wants to marry money and took her job because she heard the boss had three unwed sons. She quits in a huff when she learns the ages of his sons—4, 6, and 9.

Sourgrapes Sally—She has hated all men ever since one of her boy friends borrowed $150 from her and ran off with a waitress. "I wouldn't trade a phonograph record for any man I know," she says. The feeling is mutual. No man that knows Sally would trade a broken phonograph record for her.

Learned Lena—Lena is very, very cultured, wears horn-rimmed glasses and goes to concerts—and all that stuff. She yearns to become a college English professor, but admits she'd settle for a garage mechanic "so long as he loves to read Spinoza aloud."

Practical Priscilla—She is so confident that some day a knight on a white horse will gallop up to free her that she keeps a new saddle in her office locker—just in case he should show up riding bareback.

Tomboy Tilly—She hangs around the office water cooler challenging every passing bachelor to a game of Indian hand wrestling. "Sooner or later," she says, "I'm bound to run into a weak rundown fellow who needs a strong virile woman to lean on. When I bend his wrist to the table, he'll know I've found him."

Honest Hortense—"What's the use of kidding yourself?" she asks. "I'm ready to marry any guy in long pants who'll take me out of this nice cool office and put me to work slaving over a hot kitchen stove I can call my own."

One thing is true about practically all bachelor maidens. They aren't in the office just for the money. They're there just for the time being—they hope.

Something To Think About

On July 24, 1951, Bernard Baruch, speaking at the Lord Mayor's Dinner in London, gave the British something to think about. Now, a decade later, what Baruch said has proved to be prophetic in many respects. I quote:

"Many have complained that heretofore we came only after war commenced. That criticism can no longer be leveled at us. We have a ready given of our resources. We have considerable forces here to join in the common European defense. These will increase. I do not and cannot speak for my government. But I would be less than frank if I did not tell you what I think and what the majority of Americans think too. Unless the peoples of Europe unite and quickly give their full all-out support to General Eisenhower in his efforts to bring about a common defense, you cannot count on America's economic and military aid continuing. We will meet more than generously whatever Europeans do. If you show no hesitation and undertake your full share, we will go to the limit. Then the burdens will be less for all concerned."

It is unfortunate that many Europeans, particularly Britishers who do not know this country and its people, fail to realize that every word that Bernard Baruch said is current public opinion in this country. Our people are very tired of carrying the heavy burden of military and economic aid, particularly as we have discovered that those whom we help most display the least gratitude; that they assume that we are morally and politically obligated to aid them; that if we do not come to their assistance, we shall be isolated and lose a leadership that we really do not care for. If the British or the French prefer to lead the world let them do it.

Europeans tend to assume that international leadership holds a great attractiveness to Americans. It may be a few political leaders who bask in the sun of alien applause. It may excite the egotism of some American diplomats who believe in their own greatness because foreigners speak well of them.

But, by and large, the American people find this leadership a bore. It means next to nothing that Soapy Williams is applauded in Africa or Adlai Stevenson speaks to all the great men of Latin America. It does not even excite our people that the Europeans find that our President and his wife are well-mannered and wear appropriate clothes and can speak French to a cook.

None of this appeals to an American as significant. The experience of leadership has not been pleasant or remunerative. The destruction of the Dutch, British and French Empires, which represents the specific mark of American leadership in international affairs, has brought us nothing. We have gained neither prestige nor profits from the confusion which followed this cataclysm and we are now faced with a United Nations of 103 members, most of whom are incapable of supporting themselves economically and whose demands on us are enormous and constantly increasing and whose friendship for us is diminishing in proportion to the benefits they get from us.

There is no wisdom in the course we have followed. It has puffed up a few Americans but the wiser ones have at long last discovered that from no standpoint have the gains been ours. Our dollar needs to be supported by those whose currencies we have saved from destruction, and with wisdom, they are calculating what benefits there are still to be gotten from us and what they can get from our enemies. Do we have allies? What have they put up to prove that they are allies? Ten years ago, Bernard Baruch warned them:

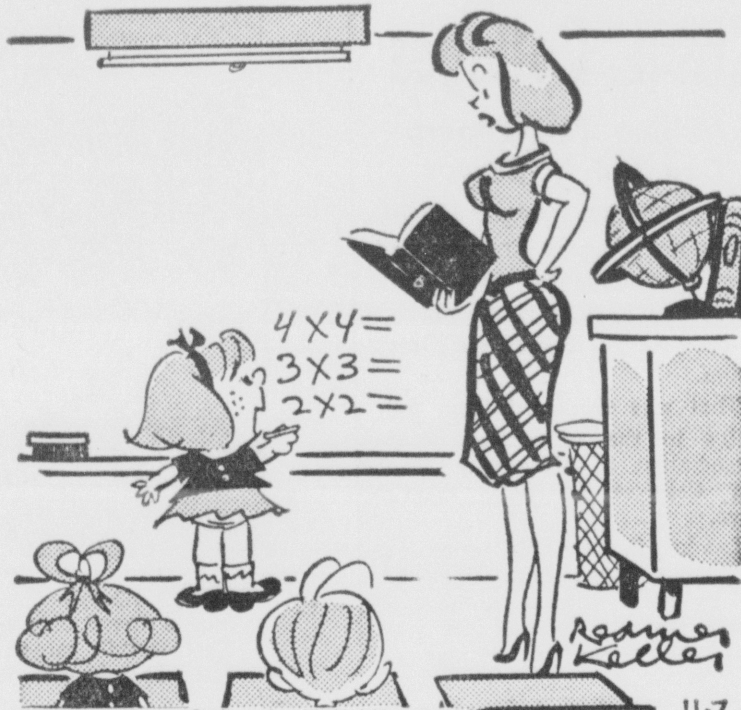

"I realize the difficulties the peoples of Europe have undergone, and the further sacrifices necessary to attain the end we all seek. We shall do more than match your efforts. But do not let Americans feel that you are not willing to shoulder your fair share of the burdens."

That support has not been forthcoming in the quantities and quality that was expected in 1951. Europe has not provided men or materials in sufficient strength to prevent the enemy from growing stronger. The result has been that Soviet Russia has gained power over about 900,000,000 human beings, taking their countries and oppressing the people of all lands. Who stood up to oppose this monster? Only the United States — and therefore we are leaders!

FOUR MAGAZINE PUBLISHERS boarded the same plane, bound for a convention in Florida. Two were seated together near the galley; the other two forward in the plane.

The hostess served beverages. The two near the galley ordered highballs, then called the attention of the stewardess to their friends up front. "One of those men," she was told, "is an alcoholic who gets very nasty after a drink or two, the other man is his keeper, who never leaves his side." That's why, when the two publishers up front ordered whiskey, they got orange juice. They still think it had something to do with local ordinances.

Inside You and Yours

By BURTON H. FERN, M.D.

What's the best remedy for a winter cough? Sometimes something to make you cough more!

With a jet of compressed air, each explosive cough blasts dripping mucus up the air passage. You inhale, clamp your vocal cords shut and exhale. Chest muscles tighten until you feel like an unopened tube of toothpaste squeezed in a giant fist.

Suddenly the vocal cords open and air thunders up the passage, whisking along everything in its path. Inflammation inside a clear air passage can tickle sensitive nerve endings and trigger explosive, useless coughs.

Because ear and throat nerves share common roots, signals are often confused. An ear infection, wax pushing on the drum, even a tickling wispy of hair in the outer ear canal may trigger a cough. Some coughs signal serious trouble; if coughing persists, call your doctor.

Meanwhile, stop annoying, useless coughs! They tire you out. Soothe raw nerve endings by coating irritated membrane with syrupy cough medicines. Honey—with or without lemon juice — works well.

Other drugs, like codeine, numb the brain's automatic cough control center. A giant dose paralyzes the center; smaller doses merely weaken the cough.

By whisking away choking mucus, valuable productive coughs help prevent bronchitis and pneumonia. Chemicals like guaifacinate or iodine make air passages "sweat". Soon this lubrication thins all thick mucus.

Many cough medicines combine all three benefits—soothing syrup, cough center control and mucus moistening. Steam—in the bathroom or by the vaporizer—can also water down stubborn mucus before blast-off. Special inhaled detergents make water wetter when mucus won't moisten.

Keep gravity on your side. Lie face down, with your head slightly lower than your chest. Mucus should pour out like ketchup from a half-empty bottle.

Control winter coughs as easily as summer coughs. The two resemble each other. There's really only one major difference—six months!

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

Las Vegas To Be Center For U.S. Gambling Probe

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The U.S. Justice Department has picked Las Vegas as the launching site for a new drive against national crime syndicates.

The chairman of the State Gaming Control Board, Ed Olsen of Reno, immediately promised to support the drive. But he said the Washington announcement of the investigation sounded "just a little bit sensational."

Justice Department officials in Washington announced Sunday Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has ordered a systematic investigation to determine: (1) The extent to which syndicated crime leaders are using Las Vegas as a meeting place; (2) Whether a race track wire service is being run here for bookmakers throughout the country; (3) The backgrounds of some gambling casino operators.

Olsen said the attorney general has been interested in Nevada for some time "and we've been working in close cooperation with Mr. Kennedy."

"The state is just as interested in uprooting racketeers—if any are here—as he is," Olsen said. Olsen said his agents—more than 50 of them—"keep track of national underworld figures that come to Las Vegas."

"If meetings of any significance (involving crime leaders) occurred in Nevada, we'd likely know about them."

Las Vegas has long been under scrutiny of federal agents. But until Congress recently passed legislation directed at syndicates, a Justice Department official said, these agents could do little more than look for hoodlum interests in Las Vegas enterprises and investigate possible income tax violations. The new laws, among other things, prevent racketeers from crossing state lines in pursuit of unlawful activities.

Sails for Rent Is Newest Idea for Vacation Funnery

By JAMES H. WINCHESTER
Central Press Association
Correspondent

MIAMI, Fla. — Sails for rent are the newest thing for vacation fun in the sun.

This new type holiday — either on pre-planned cruises covering regular itineraries or on a plan-it-yourself basis — are zooming in popularity in Florida and Caribbean waters. They provide all the comforts of a resort vacation, plus mobility, together with the thrill of exploring and discovering islands and beaches and offbeat ports on your own.

Yachts for hire, with accommodations for from two to a dozen people, range in size from 22 feet to 136 feet. Some have only one crewman, others have eight or nine.

The windjammers — and most of the boats for charter are sail-powered, although many have auxiliary motors — serve as private hotels. In cost, yacht chartering, or just cruising on one of the regular windjammer trips, runs between $22 and $40 a day per person, depending on the appointments and size of the boat.

The charge includes everything — meals, drinks, sightseeing. For instance, one yacht, sailing out of the Virgin Islands and sleeping six guests, charters for an all-expense $1,194 a week. This breaks down to $26 a day per person, a very favorable rate when compared to resort hotel costs in the same area.

The sailing season in Caribbean waters is generally considered to be January through March, with the winds strongest in January and February. However, the waters are apt to be rougher then than at other times. The ardent sailor don't mind this, of course. But those who want smoother sailing usually pick April, May or November.

Principal centers for these windjammer charters and cruises are Barbados, St. Lucia, the Virgin Islands and the Miami area. Barbados, for example, is home port for a variety of charter yachts. Among these is the luxurious Charlotte, which accommodates 10 guests.

On the first of each month, this 100-foot motorized sailing vessel leaves Barbados for a 21-day cruise to Grenada, the Grenadines and St. Vincent. The daily charge is $35 per person.

For those who don't mind roughing it, low-rate passage to the islands of the South Caribbean is available out of Barbados aboard a number of two-masted cargo schooners. These vessels sail frequently for neighboring islands and their rates are extremely cheap. One-way passage, for example, from Barbados to St. Lucia is a low $6.

The Bahamas — most frequently visited by windjammers operated from Miami — are ideal for sailing. There is plenty of deep water for off-shore cruising, as well as numerous protected anchorages. It's common practice to sail by night and anchor each day off the islands for swimming, fishing, shell-hunting and beach parties.

A "class" in marlinpike seamanship, in session aboard yacht. There is always something to learn when one is tired of playing or loafing.

The 96-foot schooner Carefree is typical of one of the Miami-based ships in this growing trade. It sails thrice-monthly through the Bahamas Our Islands to Nassau. Guests pay from $175 to $240 for the eight-day trip. It accommodates 14 guests.

Generally, no passports are required in sailing from one island to another in the Caribbean, but some proper identification — such as a driver's license — is desirable. A valid smallpox certificate is also necessary to get back into the United States or Canada.

Because life aboard these ships is informal, sports togs, slacks, shorts, plus lightweight suit or dress for evening ashore are the basic wardrobe.

PICKED FOR GUARD DUTY—Flowers probably presented by some grateful West Berliner bedeck this U.S. Army tank as two tankmen keep a somber lookout toward the East Berlin border at the Friedrichstrasse checkpoint.

You can clean up bills and debts. Have everything in one place. Cut your payments down. One cash loan may be "your dish." Fill your purse and feel better. If it's good for you we serve it.

Economists Ponder Slow Retail Buildup

Fear of War Idea Rejected as Reason For Consumer's Lag

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most government and private economists reject the idea that public fear of war and nuclear disaster has discouraged consumer buying.

Debate and discussion continue, however, and economists are still puzzled over the failure of retail sales to join in the broad and general rise of economic activity this year.

The same period has seen international crisis piled on crisis, including the Cuba invasion fiasco. Communist gains in Southeast Asia, the threat of war over Berlin, the breakdown of nuclear test ban talks and the pall of fallout from the new series of Soviet nuclear explosions.

Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges and some professional economists tie these phenomena together. It is understandable, Hodges told a recent news conference, that "because of international conditions and . . . a little fear" consumers might defer spending for home appliances and other "big ticket" items.

A similar thought was tossed out by economist George Cline Smith. As outgoing president of the National Association of Business Economists, the New York consulting economist told the association last month in Chicago:

"If the economy is going to take off for the expected highs, consumers are going to have to get their heads out of the fallout shelter and act as though they think the economy is going to last for a while."

Government economists — though reluctant to be quoted by name especially when dealing with psychology instead of economics—admit they have considered this thesis seriously. Most of them don't endorse it.

A White House official admitted privately that consumer behavior has been puzzling administration advisers for months, but without any particular indication that fright was a factor.

There was some speculation within the government that scare buying and hoarding might follow President Kennedy's July 25 message on Berlin, this source said. The speech gave a source picture of national peril, announced the muster of more troops to active duty, and called for a multibillion-dollar increase in military spending.

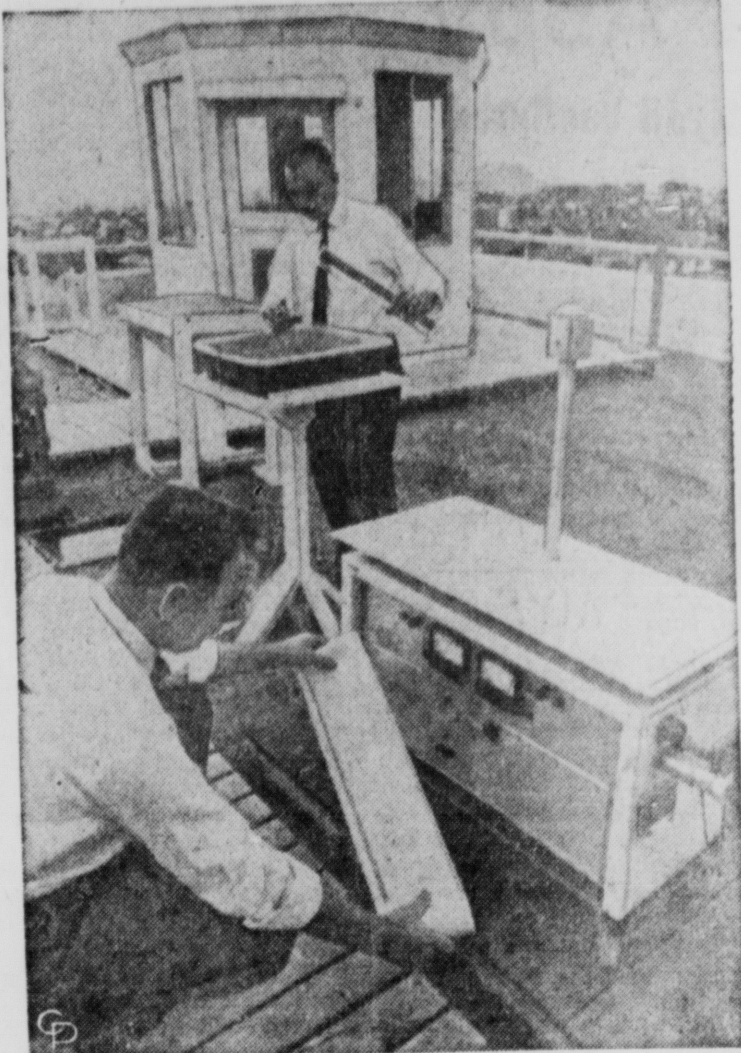

The scare buying didn't develop. A wave of interest in fallout shelters developed, but consumers kept right on socking a high 7 per cent of their disposable income into savings. Retail sales plugged steadily along at roughly the mid-recession rate.

Some economists see a possible explanation in the increasing percentage of income going into services instead of goods—services which are not reflected in the retail sales figures.

Others have looked for the explanation in the buyers' tendency—highly visible in the auto industry—to look for durability and longevity instead of frills. More economy models of washers, dryers and ranges are being sold.

This shift from "de luxe" models has prompted manufacturers to concentrate on the lower priced market, with the result sales to push up the dollar-volume totals, which the economists measure.

Cincy Police Seek Kidnaper Of 2 Girls

CINCINNATI (AP)—Police continued to hunt today for a man who entered a Westwood Grade school open house party and told two little girls:

"I've got a secret. It's our secret. Don't tell anybody. We'll go out and get some candy. Your mommy and daddy said it's all right for you to go."

He walked out of the party room with Marissa Schneider, 5, and her step-sister, Tammy West, 4. The girls' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schneider, were touring the class rooms. A janitress, left in charge of the playroom, had gone to the ladies' room.

Both little girls were recovered unharmed. The abductor, described as a man in his late 30s, told Tammy to go back to the school when they were about a block away.

Tammy was found standing at the intersection. She said the man put Marissa in a car and drove off.

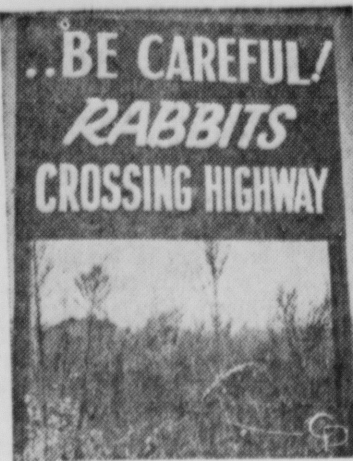

Almost an hour later, Mrs. Frances Stidham found Marissa standing by the entrance of a cemetery. The little girl said the man had gone to get her candy and she was waiting for him to come back. Mrs. Stidham said she was cold and crying.

She took the child to nearby North Fairmont Grade School—where she herself had been attending an open house party—and a police cruiser rushed up to return Marissa to her frantic parents at Westwood, two miles away.

Ohio Solon Sees Battle Over Tariffs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of the move for lowering tariffs and seeking closer ties with European Common Market would "encourage foreign competition

(and) establish a federal economic program for the control and direction of injured (domestic) industries," Rep. Frank T. Bow, R-Ohio, charged Monday.

Bow, a resident of Canton and representative of Ohio's 16th District, wants to put direct control of tariffs and quotas back in the hands of Congress.

He has introduced a bill designed to increase protection for domestic industries and predicts a stiff battle on the issue next session. The Reciprocal Trade Act is up for renewal June 30.

Many domestic industries, including the pottery industry which employs a number of Bow's constituents, have repeatedly complained against tariff and trade policies.

Bow said, "already 107 industries have suffered the effects of ruinous trade policies sufficiently to appeal for relief. Others are feeling the pinch. Many more would suffer from more 'liberal' trade agreements."

More than 90 per cent of the appeals for relief have been turned down either by the Tariff Commission or the President in the last 10 years, Bow said.

Ohio Youth 'Washed Up' As Cadet

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP)—Paul Weaver, the 18 year old West Point plebe from Portsmouth, Ohio, who disappeared for 66 days before turning up Saturday, is washed up at the military academy, a spokesman says.

No matter whether the action against Weaver is administrative or judicial, "he's finished as a cadet," said Col. Joel Stevens, academy public information officer. "He can never be a cadet again."

Weaver suddenly turned up in Portsmouth Saturday, appearing bewildered and unaware that he had been the object of a nationwide search, according to his father.

An academy spokesman said Monday the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Weaver, were en route to West Point and would be allowed to visit their son.

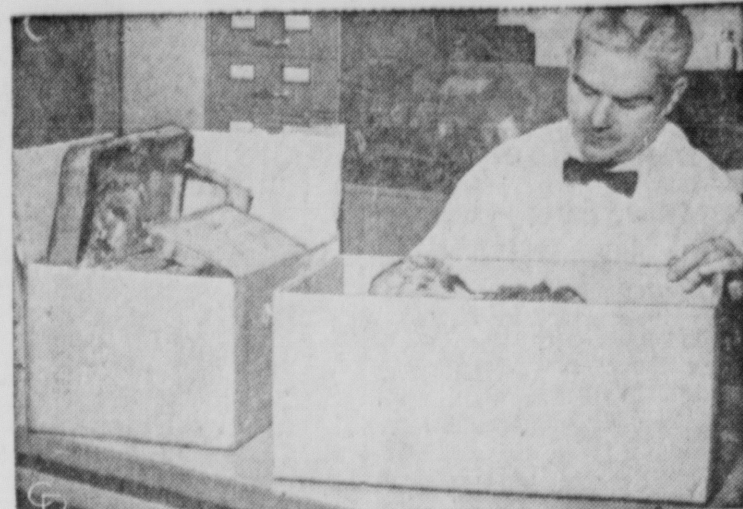

There has been speculation that young Weaver may be allowed to resign from the academy instead of facing disciplinary action. The spokesman said only that an investigation was under way and that Weaver would have defense council appointed for him if he desired.

There has been no word on why Weaver left the academy. He has said he hitchhiked around the South, picking up odd jobs as he went.

Methodist Ministers Eye Campus Preaching

CINCINNATI (AP) — Several hundred Methodist ministers gathered in Cincinnati today to discuss preaching on and around college campuses.

The Methodist Church's First National Convocation on Preaching in College and University Communities is scheduled to end Thursday.

Cincy Police Seek Kidnaper Of 2 Girls

CINCINNATI (AP)—Police continued to hunt today for a man who entered a Westwood Grade school open house party and told two little girls:

"I've got a secret. It's our secret. Don't tell anybody. We'll go out and get some candy. Your mommy and daddy said it's all right for you to go."

He walked out of the party room with Marissa Schneider, 5, and her step-sister, Tammy West, 4. The girls' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schneider, were touring the class rooms. A janitress, left in charge of the playroom, had gone to the ladies' room.

Both little girls were recovered unharmed. The abductor, described as a man in his late 30s, told Tammy to go back to the school when they were about a block away.

Tammy was found standing at the intersection. She said the man put Marissa in a car and drove off.

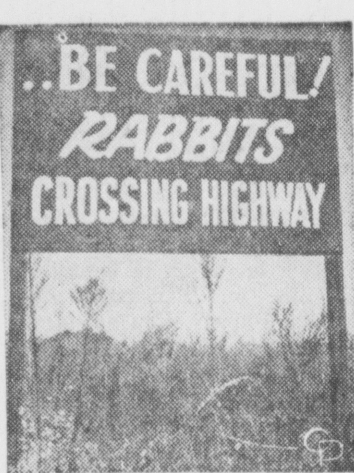

Almost an hour later, Mrs. Frances Stidham found Marissa standing by the entrance of a cemetery. The little girl said the man had gone to get her candy and she was waiting for him to come back. Mrs. Stidham said she was cold and crying.

She took the child to nearby North Fairmont Grade School—where she herself had been attending an open house party—and a police cruiser rushed up to return Marissa to her frantic parents at Westwood, two miles away.

Husband-Slayer Held

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Josephine Capitos, 55, has been bound to the Summit County grand jury on a first-degree murder charge in the slaying of her estranged husband, Sam Capitos, 42, Saturday.

By day, breeze blows from the sea. By night, it blows toward the sea. This is because the sun's rays warm the land faster than the ocean by day, causing air over the land to move upward, drawing in air from the ocean. At night the ground cools faster than the water and the air over the water rises.

Ohio Solon Sees Battle Over Tariffs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of the move for lowering tariffs and seeking closer ties with European Common Market would "encourage foreign competition . . . (and) establish a federal economic program for the control and direction of injured (domestic) industries," Rep. Frank T. Bow, R-Ohio, charged Monday.

Bow, a resident of Canton and representative of Ohio's 16th District, wants to put direct control of tariffs and quotas back in the hands of Congress.

He has introduced a bill designed to increase protection for domestic industries and predicts a stiff battle on the issue next session. The Reciprocal Trade Act is up for renewal June 30.

Many domestic industries, including the pottery industry which employs a number of Bow's constituents, have repeatedly complained against tariff and trade policies.

Bow said, "already 107 industries have suffered the effects of ruinous trade policies sufficiently to appeal for relief. Others are feeling the pinch. Many more would suffer from more 'liberal' trade agreements."

More than 90 per cent of the appeals for relief have been turned down either by the Tariff Commission or the President in the last 10 years, Bow said.

Ohio Youth 'Washed Up' As Cadet

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP)—Paul Weaver, the 18 year old West Point plebe from Portsmouth, Ohio, who disappeared for 66 days before turning up Saturday, is washed up at the military academy, a spokesman says.

No matter whether the action against Weaver is administrative or judicial, "he's finished as a cadet," said Col. Joel Stevens, academy public information officer. "He can never be a cadet again."

Weaver suddenly turned up in Portsmouth Saturday, appearing bewildered and unaware that he had been the object of a nationwide search, according to his father.

An academy spokesman said Monday the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Weaver, were en route to West Point and would be allowed to visit their son.

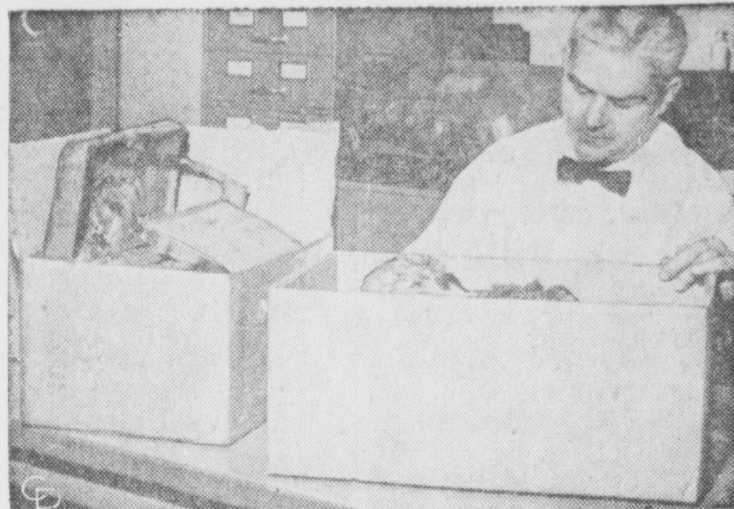

There has been speculation that young Weaver may be allowed to resign from the academy instead of facing disciplinary action. The spokesman said only that an investigation was under way and that Weaver would have defense council appointed for him if he desired.

There has been no word on why Weaver left the academy. He has said he hitchhiked around the South, picking up odd jobs as he went.

RAT-TAIL COMB — This is the tool needed to help you arrange a French twist into a neat and straight roll at center back.

Curley Cues For Coiffures

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

Some women have a flair for arranging hair. Others can't do a thing to keep a coiffure under control.

What makes the difference? Just a little know-how, so look over these simple tricks. They may solve your problem if hair's your despair.

BOUFFANT COIFFURE: If you want a coiffure that puffs high at sides and top, set it on rollers. Plastic rollers with clip-on tops are especially easy for a novice to handle.

PAGE BOY: Arrange hair over roll of cotton. Spray. Tie scarf over roll until hair's set.

FRENCH TWIST: The trick here is in arranging. Use a rat-tail comb and you'll find it's easy to twist the roll into a neat line.

LONG-LASTING CURLS: To make a setting last, wet hair with wave-set lotion before rolling it. After combing your coiffure, apply invisible net of hair spray.

At night, protect coiffure by wrapping tissue-paper around head, then tying net or scarf over it.

TELLTALE WISPS: Whip wisps that spoil coiffure into line by applying pomade stick to them. Stick comes in colorless formula as well as in black and brown to cover tell-tale gray hairs.

COIFFURE CHANGE: Preview a coiffure change while hair's sudged up with shampoo. Suds give hair body, enable you to swirl and curl it in different ways to show you how a new hairdo will look.

FAST SETTING: Roll dry hair on pin-curls. Apply fast-drying hair spray. Wait 20 to 30 minutes until spray dries, then comb out coiffure.

You can also set hair in short order if you dampen it with cologne, which evaporates and dries quickly.

PIN-ON CAMOUFLAGE: If your emergency supplies include a pin-on hairpiece, you can always manage a pretty hairdo. When back hair is straggly, pin it up, then pin the hairpiece over it.

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

But He Baited the Hook!

DEAR ABBY: A gentleman friend with whom I have been keeping company invited me to go fishing with him. Perhaps I should explain that I am a widow in my middle forties and he is a bachelor in his middle fifties. I packed a nice picnic lunch for us and we drove about 70 miles to this little fishing village where he said the fishing was so good.

When we got there, much to my amazement, he had forgotten the fishing equipment. What do you think he had in mind?

NO FISH

DEAR NO: He was angling for something—but it wasn't fish!

DEAR ABBY: I want your opinion, and the opinion of other mothers, on whether a five-year-old boy should learn to fight back. Our boy comes home crying almost every day with the story that one of his playmates "hit" him. My husband has told him that he must learn to "fight back." I say that he should walk away. I have gone to the mothers of his playmates and they tell me I am wrong, that little boys must learn to protect themselves. I have tried keeping my boy in his own yard, but he wants to play with the other boys. Yet he can't get along with them. Is there any solution to my problem?

MRS. A.

DEAR MRS. A.: This is not your problem. It's your son's. He will learn if you let him how to get along with boys his age. A normal child need not go through life "fighting" or "fleeing back." When he comes home crying, make light of it and don't go to the parents of his playmates. All children learn through trial and error, and yours will, too.

DEAR ABBY: I am a qualified switchboard operator, but my husband refuses to let me work. Our children are 14 and 16 and are in school all day. I am bored with bridge and clubs and would like to get back into the business world. On the surface it appears that my husband is being "nice" to me, but I am on to him. He doesn't want me to have any money of my own. He is very tight with his money, and when he does give me a few dollars I have to account for every dime of it. I am sick of being controlled by him in this way. What do you think I ought to do?

WANTS TO WORK
 DEAR WANTS: Talk it over with your husband and try for a compromise. A full-time job is no breeze. Why not consider part-time work?

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

But He Baited the Hook!

DEAR ABBY: A gentleman friend with whom I have been keeping company invited me to go fishing with him. Perhaps I should explain that I am a widow in my middle forties and he is a bachelor in his middle fifties. I packed a nice picnic lunch for us and we drove about 70 miles to this little fishing village where he said the fishing was so good.

When we got there, much to my amazement, he had forgotten the fishing equipment. What do you think he had in mind?

NO FISH
DEAR ABBY: He was angling for something—but it wasn't fish!

DEAR ABBY: I want your opinion, and the opinion of other mothers, on whether a five-year-old boy should learn to fight back. Our boy comes home crying almost every day with the story that one of his playmates "hit" him. My husband has told him that he must learn to "fight back." I say that he should walk away. I have gone to the mothers of his playmates and they tell me I am wrong, that little boys must learn to protect themselves. I have tried keeping my boy in his own yard, but he wants to play with the other boys. Yet he can't get along with them. Is there any solution to my problem?

MRS. A.
DEAR MRS. A.: This is not your problem. It's your son's. He will learn (if you let him) how to get along with boys his age. A normal child need not go through life "fighting" or "being fought." When he comes home crying, make light of it and don't go to the parents of his playmates. All children learn through trial and error, and yours will, too.

DEAR ABBY: I am a qualified switchboard operator, but my husband refuses to let me work. Our children are 14 and 16 and are in school all day. I am bored with bridge and clubs and would like to get back into the business world. On the surface it appears that my husband is being "nice" to me, but I am on to him. He doesn't want me to have any money of my own.

He is very tight with his money, and when he does give me a few dollars I have to account for every dime of it. I am sick of being controlled by him in this way. What do you think I ought to do?

WANTS TO WORK
DEAR ABBY: Talk it over with your husband and try for a compromise. A full-time job is no breeze. Why not consider part-time work?

Fearful Baluba Tribesmen Disclose Sad Story of Congo

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, (AP)—Some 30,000 Baluba tribesmen, sitting in mud and filth on the northern outskirts of Elisabethville, tell the sad story of the Congo.

They include men, women and children. Fear sent them to this camp for U.N. protection—fear of ancient tribal enemies, fear of primitive brutality by the police, and maybe imagined terrors unknown to modern man.

The Baluba of Katanga are political followers of Jason Sendwe insofar as they have any political consciousness.

Now vice premier in the central Congolese government at Leopold-ville, Sendwe is an exile from Katanga.

The Baluba began to leave their homes in the African townships of Katanga more than two months ago. They said police of Tshombe's interior minister, Godefroid Munongo, had circulated through the townships, threatening and mistreating them.

The Balubas settled down in what once was a handsome suburban area, with a few handsome villas and may trees. Soon they were arriving by the thousands, bringing pots, pans, chairs, sewing machines.

They hacked limbs from trees, gathered grass and made thousands of huts. Trees, grass, shrubs and flowers have disappeared. The Balubas squat in their huts waiting in fear.

Swedish U.N. troops make regular patrols through the camp in armored cars. Once they opened fire when youths seized a Swedish soldier. Eight Balubas died.

Ten days later it was discovered the bodies were being preserved with ice from a brewery. The Balubas said they were preserving the bodies as proof that the United Nations killed the tribesmen.

The 30,000 Balubas sitting in the mud illustrate the deep tribal suspicions and intense hatred which motivate the Congolese.

They show why it is so difficult to form a central government representative of all sections of the Congo. The colonial powers for years made no effort to integrate the tribes. Instead they used these primitive divisions to consolidate control.

Katangan leaders insist they have nothing in common with the politicians in Leopoldville, 1,200 miles away. Katanga, they say, was included in the new republic simply because the Belgian colonial authorities arbitrarily included it to suit their purposes.

The Congo now has three armies: those of Gen. Joseph Mobutu in Leopoldville, Victor Lundula in Stanleyville, and Norbert Muke in Elisabethville.

The U.N. task in reconciling these conflicting forces and maintaining order in the Congos 900,000 square miles will take many years.

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's not just the eyes watching that's going to make filling Dag Hammarskjold's job tough for his successor. The very title of the job, and the fight over it, force him into self-consciousness.

Besides, the power of the office has been diminished. So it will not be unexpected if U Thant, the Burmese diplomat who replaces Swedish Hammarskjold, does only a so-so job, and maybe not even so-so.

Hammarskjold, killed in an African plane crash in September, was secretary-general of the United Nations. U Thant, chosen last Friday to succeed him, is simply acting secretary-general.

He will fill out the unexpired part of Hammarskjold's term which ends in about 18 months, April 1963.

I was Hammarskjold's willingness to assert responsibility—to the fullest authority of his office, as he saw it—that sometimes angered several Western nations but particularly infuriated the Soviets.

In the Congo, for instance, it was the United Nations under Hammarskjold's leadership which frustrated Russian efforts to move in on a chaotic predicament. It was no wonder Premier Khrushchev said the Russians didn't trust the Swede.

Khrushchev in his anger went so far as to demand reorganization of the United Nations to provide not one secretary-general but three—one each representing the West, Russia, and the neutrals—and each with a veto over what the others wanted.

This so-called troika plan could have paralyzed the United Nations in any emergency and truly turned the world organization, which is supposed to preserve peace, into a namby-pamby debating society.

The Russians, with Hammarskjold dead, saw their chance to push for the troika. The United States was dead against it.

After seven weeks of maneuvering the United States and Russia finally worked out a compromise in picking U Thant.

He would be only the acting secretary-general but he would seek to reach agreement on decisions with advisers he would pick. As soon as he got the job he named an American and a Russian as his advisers. He may name more.

In a way Russia lost. It didn't get three secretaries-general. In a sense it won—U Thant is committed to consulting certain advisers although what happens if the Russian or American disagrees with him remains to be seen.

This much is clear already: this very arrangement of commitment on consultation weakens the power of the office. Hammarskjold had a much freer hand than his successor.

The Russians haven't lost their fight for the troika. They may merely have postponed it until U Thant's term is up and the United Nations has to pick a full secretary-general.

Here, too, the acting secretary-general is on the spot since he knows, or at least can suppose, that the way he handles his job will have some bearing on whether the Russians will insist on a troika in 18 months or settle for less. On top of all this—with all these handicaps—U Thant knows that every one of the 103 member nations will be watching to see how he compares with Hammarskjold.

Wheelbarrow Reveals Secret

STIRLING, Scotland (AP)—Every Tuesday for the past five years Peter Robertson has pushed a wheelbarrow through the streets from the Old Kirk to the bank.

Last Tuesday the barrow overturned rounding a corner and the secret was out—under the trash was the congregation's donation for the previous Sunday. In this case the total was 541 pounds—$1,514.80—much of it silver.

Robertson is church treasurer.

"The church members are so generous—and there are 2,500 of them—that I reached the point some years ago where I couldn't heft the stuff to the bank," Robertson explained. "So I started carrying it in the wheelbarrow with a bit of trash on top for camouflage."

"Now that the secret has leaked I'll have to hire a taxi."

Retired Worker, Wife Found Shot to Death

CLEVELAND (AP)—A retired steelworker apparently fired two bullets into his wife's head and one into his own, killing them both Monday, police reported.

The bodies of George Jacob, 65, and his wife, Veronica, 58, were found in the bedroom of their East Side home. Mrs. Jacob was dressed in a nightgown and was in bed. Jacob was slumped over it. A revolver was nearby, police reported.

Redistricting Seen Cutting Farm Delegation

Grange Says Ag Bloc To Be Trimmed by 35 Under Congress Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Grange predicts that farmers will lose 35 of the present 166 predominantly farm districts under congressional redistricting now under way as a result of the 1960 census. There are 435 congressional districts in all.

In a letter to its members, the farm organization said this redistricting by state legislatures promises to be one of the "hottest and most vital issues affecting rural people during the next 10 years."

"The loss of farm representation in the U. S. House of Representatives will place rural people at a greater disadvantage than at any time since the first Congress assembled," the letter said.

But rural losses will not be confined to Congress, the Grange said. Similar losses in varying degrees will show up, it said, in state legislatures.

During the 1950s, farm population decreased about 15 per cent, while the nonfarm population increased by almost 25 per cent.

"In nearly all, if not all, states urban areas will gain in the redistricting," the letter said. "The problem will be to make certain that the redistricting is one in such a way that the rural vote is not overshadowed by urban votes in the same districts."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Agricultural economists and agricultural college leaders will gather here next week to debate the economic outlook for farmers in 1962.

The conference, which opens Nov. 13 and closes Nov. 15, is described as the Agriculture Department's annual Farm Outlook Conference. Federal farm officials will participate.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department has given names to its emergency state and county agricultural defense planning committees. Hereafter they will be called State and County Defense Boards.

These boards will be headed by state and county chairmen of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committees, units which help administer federal farm aid programs. Previously, chairmen were designated from staff members of department agencies or the cooperative extension service.

Jobless Pay Checks Show Sharp Decline

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The number of state jobless benefit checks cleared by the state treasurer's office during October dropped more than 43 per cent from the number cleared six months ago.

"Last month our office cleared 416,040 unemployment checks," State Treasurer Joseph T. Ferguson said today. "This represents a decrease of 320,045 from the 736,085 cleared in April."

The October figure included temporary extended unemployment benefits. It was down by 5,384, or about 1.3 per cent, from the same month a year ago when the temporary benefits were not in effect, Ferguson noted.

Red Cross on Berlin Duty Since End of World War II

By Central Press Association
BERLIN, Germany — The 1,500 U. S. Army men who were rushed here in mid-August to bolster the American garrison force had to leave their homes in West Germany on just a few hours' notice.

The men, however, found the American Red Cross on the job here, ready to help them solve family and personal problems that the sudden move had accentuated.

Neil M. Clark, ARC field director, and Miss Mary Moffatt, his assistant, are the latest of a long series of Red Cross staff people who have been on duty in West Berlin since the end of World War II.

Arrival of the new contingent of U. S. servicemen actually may cause a relatively moderate increase in their total workload, Clark and Miss Moffatt explained. Dependents of the latest group of American troops now are being allowed three-day visits to West Berlin, and many of the families will be able to solve their own problems as they develop.

The East-West tension that brought about the present crisis had already increased our workload by half since last June," Clark said. "The 110-mile corridor through East Germany that leads to Berlin from the West creates many communication and travel difficulties for the U. S. troops stationed here."

"And the German-born wives of many American soldiers stationed all around the world are asking the American Red Cross for welfare reports on relatives who still live in either half of Berlin."

Clark cited one recent case that points out the problems involved in living in an "island city" where normal travel is restricted.

The 10-year son of a Berlin-based sergeant was attending summer camp in Frankfurt, 400 miles west of here. He became homesick, and camp officials called the father to advise him to come for his son immediately. Because of travel restrictions and the time and expense involved, the soldier called on Clark for help.

The Red Cross man notified the ARC field director in Frankfurt, and the latter purchased a plane ticket for the boy and put him

Moyer captained the university's first football team that year. He is studying sculpture. Polovick is still in high school, but is taking a mathematics course at Kent to get a start.

Sgt. Glenn Hedrick of Mead, Wash., chats with Neil M. Clark, an American Red Cross field director, just a few yards from the barrier on the Wilhelmstrasse, Berlin, which separates West from East.

aboard the plane. The next day, homesickness forgotten, the boy ran happily off the plane at Tempelhof Airfield in West Berlin where he was met by his parents.

Another recent case involved a search for the German father-in-law of an American serviceman in France. The wife had learned her father was planning to leave the East Zone through Berlin, and the couple asked the American Red Cross to help locate him.

With her German secretary to do the interpreting, Miss Moffatt went to the main West German

Red Cross refugee camp of Marlenfelde in Berlin. Officials there had no record of the father-in-law, but said he might try to come through later.

Other refugee camps in Europe have been alerted to watch for the man and tell him he could get in touch with his daughter through the American Red Cross. "We and the family haven't give up hope," Miss Moffatt said.

In addition to the two career staff members here, the American Red Cross has a volunteer staff of Gray Ladies and staff aides serving in the U. S. military hospital. Wives of both enlisted men and officers, they work together to help the patients — serving coffee and snacks, playing the piano, singing, playing cards, checkers and chess — providing a touch of home to men far from home.

Anticipating that the Red Cross job in Berlin will continue to increase, the organization is adding a hospital field director to the staff in Berlin. This will free Clark and Miss Moffatt to work exclusively with the able-bodied members of the American armed forces and their dependents living here with them.

Computer Due To Help Spot Tax Cheaters

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service announced Monday a two-year speedup in its program to process all tax returns automatically at an electronic computer center in this Shenandoah Valley city.

Internal Revenue Commissioner Mortimer M. Caplin said IRS expects to complete the conversion to computer operations by 1966. The agency had been thinking earlier in terms of 1968 or possibly 1969.

The speedup announcement was made in a speech Caplin prepared for the dedication of a $750,000 national computer center here. This brick structure eventually will house a master file on 80 million individual and corporate taxpayers. The file will cover 400 miles of magnetic tape to be stored in a single room about 30 by 40 feet.

As part of the shift to electronic tax processing, every taxpayer will be given an identity number so individual accounts won't get mixed up. For 85 per cent of all taxpayers, this will be their Social Security number. All others will be assigned numbers similar to those used in the Social Security program.

The government is counting on the computers to help detect tax cheats, who are estimated to evade about $5 billion in taxes each year. The computers will cross-check the figures on every tax return against reported payments to taxpayers in the form of wages, dividends and interest. This task must now be done by hand, so only spot checks are possible.

Phony 'Maturity' On TV Shows Hit

SOUTHERN PINES, N. C. (AP)—Robert D. Swezey, the broadcast industry's chief code administrator, said today that what he termed the "phonies" of television have found an "enticing playground" in mature programming.

He told the industry to beware of those who put a "shocking twist in a routine plot, sprinkle it with profanity, inject a judicious amount of pornographic titillation, and hail it as a masterpiece of mature programming."

Swezey said that mature programming is bound to become an increasing problem of code interpretation because it cannot be defined specifically.

Lawyer's Mumps Delays Death Trial

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—A second-degree murder trial was postponed three weeks because the defense attorney showed up in court Monday with mumps.

The attorney, James F. Shumaker, is counsel for Donald J. Miller, 21. Miller is charged with the shotgun slaying last February of Edward F. Bobo, 40, of Rt. 3 Athens in a barn behind the house where they lived.

Shumaker said he could go on with the trial, but the three-judge panel decided not to risk the attorney's health and the Athens County prosecutor concurred by setting the trial back to Nov. 27.

Crosley Seeks Delay In TV Channel Transfer

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Crosley Broadcasting Co. is petitioning the Federal Communications Commission for a stay of an order to transfer Channel 13 at Indianapolis from WLW-I to WIBC, Inc.

The order was issued Oct. 27. It is to go into effect Nov. 30.

Crosley contends awarding the channel to WIBC would not provide more diversity in news broadcasts and programming in the Indianapolis area because WIBC owns several radio stations there. Crosley operates television stations at Cincinnati, Dayton and Columbus.

Fred MacMurray Is Happy In Living His Three Lives

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Fred MacMurray switched families again this week.

Last week he was husband of Jane Wyman and father of Tommy Kirk, Deborah Walley and Kevin Corcoran in Walt Disney's "Bon Voyage."

This week he resumed as widower and father of Tim Considine, Don Grady and Stanley Livingston in TV's "My Three Sons."

He devotes his evenings and weekends to his real-life wife, June Haver, and their growing brood.

All this doesn't confuse or even exhaust MacMurray, a well-organized and resourceful man. "But it does cut into my golf time," he admitted.

MacMurray was offered a dream deal to induce him to undertake "My Three Sons"—fabulous money plus the assurance he would work only three months a year. The schedule was adjusted so he could do all his scenes in one batch.

"It didn't work out exactly as planned," Fred said. "I ended up working four months instead of three."

"We started out shooting all my scenes in each set. First we'd go to the kitchen and do all the kitchen scenes from all the shows, then move into the living room. Well, that got a little tiresome."

"The thing that got me down was changing clothes all the time. So now we shoot my scenes from each show in sequence, going from one room to another. The rest of the cast do their scenes afterward."

Fred is happy with the way the series has gone, as well he should be: It is one of the top-rated shows. He'll be making only one change this season.

"I had only one brush with romance in the first show, when a girl took me to her apartment and I backed off," he said. "The rest of the time I've just been sitting around the house. People might start to wonder about this guy, so I think we'll be having a little romance this year."

State Check Forgeries Said On Increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Treasurer Joseph T. Ferguson has expressed alarm at what he said was a substantial increase in the number of state checks bearing forged endorsements.

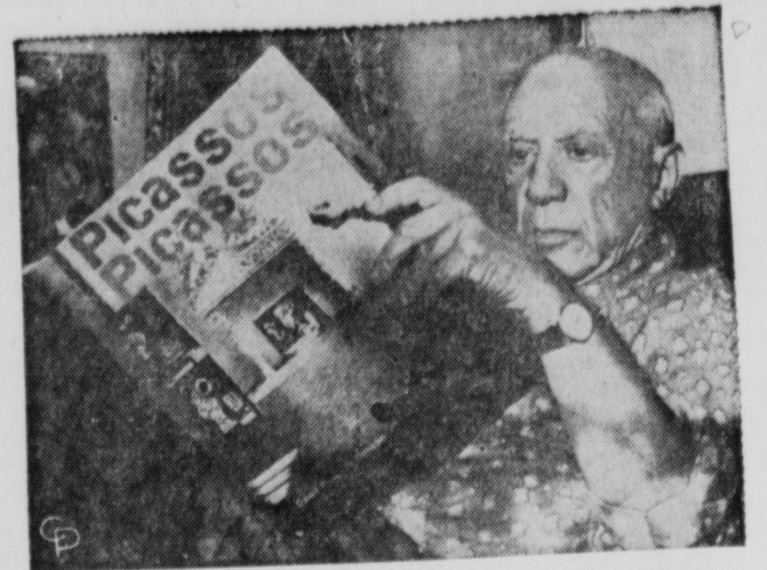

He issued a warning to all persons and businesses cashing such checks to be sure to know the endorser.

Ferguson said that in a 10-day period during October his office received 141 affidavits of forgery regarding checks totaling $5,728 drawn on the state for unemployment compensation benefits.

A breakdown showed that 33 per cent of these checks were cashed in bars and restaurants, 32 per cent in grocery stores and the remainder in drug stores, service stations and other business places.

Ferguson said 77 per cent of these state warrants were cashed in the Northeastern Ohio area, including Cleveland, Youngstown, Akron and Canton. Thirteen per cent were cashed in the Cincinnati area and the other 10 per cent in the Columbus area.

The treasurer said that in addition to forged endorsements, several attempts have been made to alter the monetary figures on the checks.

Redistricting Seen Cutting Farm Delegation

Grange Says Ag Bloc To Be Trimmed by 35 Under Congress Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Grange predicts that farmers will lose 35 of the present 166 predominantly farm districts under congressional redistricting now under way as a result of the 1960 census. There are 435 congressional districts in all.

In a letter to its members, the farm organization said this redistricting by state legislatures promises to be one of the "hottest and most vital issues affecting rural people during the next 10 years."

"The loss of farm representation in the U. S. House of Representatives will place rural people at a greater disadvantage than at any time since the first Congress assembled," the letter said.

But rural losses will not be confined to Congress, the Grange said. Similar losses in varying degrees will show up, it said, in state legislatures.

During the 1950s, farm population decreased about 15 per cent, while the nonfarm population increased by almost 25 per cent.

"In nearly all, if not all, states urban areas will gain in the redistricting," the letter said. "The problem will be to make certain that the redistricting is one in such a way that the rural vote is not overshadowed by urban votes in the same districts."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Agricultural economists and agricultural college leaders will gather here next week to debate the economic outlook for farmers in 1962.

The conference, which opens Nov. 13 and closes Nov. 15, is described as the Agriculture Department's annual Farm Outlook Conference. Federal farm officials will participate.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department has given new names to its emergency state and county agricultural defense planning committees. Hereafter they will be called State and County Defense Boards.

These boards will be headed by state and county chairmen of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committees, units which help administer federal farm aid programs. Previously, chairman were designated from staff members of department agencies or the cooperative extension service.

Jobless Pay Checks Show Sharp Decline

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The number of state jobless benefit checks cleared by the state treasurer's office during October dropped more than 43 per cent from the number cleared six months ago.

"Last month our office cleared 416,040 unemployment checks," State Treasurer Joseph T. Ferguson said today. "This represents a decrease of 320,045 from the 736,085 cleared in April."

The October figure included temporary extended unemployment benefits. It was down by 5,384, or about 1.3 per cent, from the same month a year ago when the temporary benefits were not in effect, Ferguson noted.

Red Cross on Berlin Duty Since End of World War II

By Central Press Association
BERLIN, Germany — The 1,500 U. S. Army men who were rushed here in mid-August to bolster the American garrison force had to leave their homes in West Germany on just a few hours' notice.

The men, however, found the American Red Cross on the job here, ready to help them solve family and personal problems that the sudden move had accentuated.

Neil M. Clark, ARC field director, and Miss Mary Moffatt, his assistant, are the latest of a long series of Red Cross staff people who have been on duty in West Berlin since the end of World War II.

Arrival of the new contingent of U. S. servicemen actually may cause a relatively moderate increase in their total workload, Clark and Miss Moffatt explained. Dependents of the latest group of American troops now are being allowed three-day visits to West Berlin, and many of the families will be able to solve their own problems as they develop.

The East-West tension that brought about the present crisis had already increased our workload by half since last June," Clark said.

"The 110-mile corridor through East Germany that leads to Berlin from the West creates many communication and travel difficulties for the U. S. troops stationed here."

"And the German-born wives of many American soldiers stationed all around the world are asking the American Red Cross for welfare reports on relatives who still live in either half of Berlin."

Clark cited one recent case that points up the problems involved in living in an "island city" where normal travel is restricted.

The 10-year-old son of a Berlin-based sergeant was attending summer camp in Frankfurt, 400 miles west of here. He became homesick, and camp officials called the father to advise him to come for his son immediately. Because of travel restrictions and the time and expense involved, the soldier called on Clark for help.

The Red Cross man notified the ARC field director in Frankfurt, and the latter purchased a plane ticket for the boy and put him

Spitball Gets Approval of Baseball Czar

NEW YORK (AP) — Beleaguered big league baseball pitchers, stung by a record 2,730 home runs last season, have a strong ally in Commissioner Ford Frick. "I hope they bring back the spitball," Frick said today. "The pitchers need help. Most of the rule changes the past few years have favored the batter. Something has to be done to give the game more balance."

According to Frick, a proposal to legalize the spitter was submitted to the major league rules committee last month. The group is expected to consider it during the majors' annual meetings early in December in Tampa, Fla. Jim Gallagher, veteran executive most recently with Philadelphia, is the committee chairman.

"A similar proposal was submitted to the committee a few years ago but was turned down," Frick recalled. "This time I think there's even more need for the spitter. The fans will eventually get tired of seeing all those home runs. The spitball would help bring back the stolen base, the hit-and-run and the sacrifice and would give the fans something new."

Frick pointed out Joe Cronin, American League president, and Frank Shaughnessy, former president of the International League, also are in favor of the spitball's return. The spitball, outlawed in the early 1920s, moves up to the plate like a knuckler, only faster, Frick said.

OSU Alumni Aide Blasts Athletic Aide

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—John B. (Jack) Fullen, Ohio State University alumni secretary, commented Monday—apparently with tongue-in-cheek—that maybe Ohio State ought to hire a pro football team to play on Saturdays and run it under a new bureau of football.

Fullen, in a signed editorial in the Ohio State Lantern, student newspaper, expressed his ire with the faculty council's mid-October approval of a $416,000 - a year athletic scholarship program.

Fullen said that under the program an athlete getting a 1.7 scholastic average in his freshman year "will be eligible to receive the full list of board, room, tuition and books," and a reduced class schedule of 12 hours in season compared with the minimum of 15 for other students.

The alumni secretary assailed the council's claim that the program would raise athletes' scholastic requirements.

"They are not raising the standards at all," Fullen said. "They stay just as easy as they were. 'What the spokesman (for the council) really means is that, in recruiting a prospect — and are they evermore recruited — they want to know whether he is worth spending the money on.'"

Crimson Tide Back with Elite

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Alabama's Crimson Tide, back among the elite of college football after a decade of mediocrity, have spelled success this year with a pair of Qs, and a couple of blokes named Pat and Mike.

The Qs stand for "quarterback" and "quickness" the hallmark of its rapid-fire offense and a rock-robbed defense. The Pat is also the quarterback, Pat Trammell. Mike? He is a quick-driving fullback by the name of Mike Fracchia, who proves a perfect foil to the speed, deception and passing precision of his partner, Trammell.

This combination has led Coach Bear Bryant's team to a 7-0 record, and has helped it to be ranked No. 2 in The Associated Press' latest poll after whumping Mississippi State last Saturday, 24-0.

All elements have blended precisely. Trammell is ranked fifth nationally in total offense with 956 yards running and passing, and 11th in passing with 730 yards in completing 54 to 93 attempts.

Alabama is second nationally in total defense, allowing only 911 yards in seven games for a 130.1 average, and second in rushing defense with a miserly 55.1 per game average. It has allowed only 3.1 points per game, lowest in the nation.

Trammell has passed for five touchdowns, and scored eight. Fracchia has tallied four times and been the hatchet man on key yardage situations. Both will be ready this Saturday when the Tide plays Richmond of the Southern Conference, causing the Spiders Coach Ed Merriek to crack, "I hope my boys won't be overconfident."

Richmond may be without halfback Earl Stoudt, its All Conference halfback and leading ground gainer, who injured a knee in last week's 11-0 victory over Virginia Tech.

Texas, the No. 1 team, will have to face Baylor without fullback Ray Poage, out for the second straight week. Third-ranked Ohio State, playing Indiana, probably will be without quarterback Bill Mrukowski, who suffered a gashed finger in the Buckeyes victory over Iowa.

Penn State lost guard Bob Hart

for the year because of a recurring ankle injury that will require surgery. Jerry Gross, the University of Detroit's quarterback who led the nation in total offense part of this season, was operated on Monday for a fracture of the right leg he suffered last week against Army. He is finished for 1961.

Notre Dame is expected to have guard Nick Buonoconte and end Jim Kelly back for this week's game at Pitt, when the Irish try to break a three-game losing string. Notre Dame fullback Mike Lind may be out another week with a pulled back muscle.

Baylor quarterback Bobby Ply was listed as doubtful for the Texas game after suffering a knee injury against Texas Christian.

Gridiron Year Bit Too Long For Reserves

The football season ended exactly 35 seconds too late yesterday as far as Circleville's reserve Tiggers were concerned.

John Conrad, fleet-footed Amanda - Clearcreek griddier, tumbled the Tigers from the unbeaten ranks in their final game of the year, racing 40 yards on a left side reverse in the waning moments of the fourth quarter to give the visitors a 14-12 decision at CHS field.

Conrad's burst came after Circleville had claimed a shaky 12-8 margin early in the last period on an 18-yard touchdown pass play from Dave Bass to Bob Purcell. It marked the only loss in five all-reserve tilts for the Bengals.

Amanda got scoring under way in the evening tilt with a one-yard plunge by Kenny Hampshire midway through the second stanza. The extra-points run clicked and Amanda held an 8-0 halftime advantage.

EARLY IN the third quarter the Bass-Purcell combination climaxed a sustained Tiger drive with a one-yard aerial good for the TD. A try for added points was rebuffed.

After the second Bass - Purcell tally the locals regained possession of the ball with short time remaining in the last canto and began running plays into the line to grind out the clock.

A fumble in the last two minutes turned the ball over to Amanda, though, and Conrad's dash was the result.

The Tigers had turned back the Fairfield Countians 20-0 in their first meeting, Sept. 18. Excluding four exclusively freshman contests in mid-season, the reserves had captured four straight victories prior to yesterday's defeat.

Brown Has No Plan For Team Shakeup

CLEVELAND (AP) — Coach Paul Browns says he has no plans for a drastic personnel shakeup nor major change in tactics to try to improve the Cleveland Browns' chances in the National Football League race. The Browns are in third place in the eastern division with a 5-3 record.

With Bobby Mitchell able to play only on weekend passes and his replacement, Tom Watkins, suffering a dislocated shoulder, the coach takes a somber view of the remaining six games on the schedule, which include two against the New York Giants, one with Philadelphia and one with the Chicago Bears.

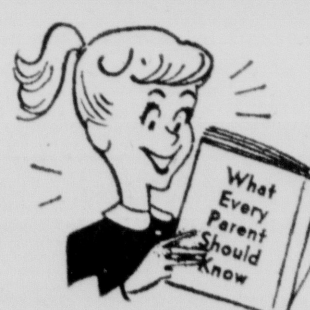

"We'll have to hang in there and do the best we can," said Brown. "Difficulties like these separate the men from the boys."

Hall of Fame third baseman Harold (Pie) Traynor of Pittsburgh batted .320 in 1,941 games.

Joe Cronin, American League president and a Hall of Fame shortstop, batted .302 in 2,124 major league games.

Spitball Gets Approval of Baseball Czar

NEW YORK (AP) — Beleaguered big league baseball pitchers, stung by a record 2,730 home runs last season, have a strong ally in Commissioner Ford Frick. "I hope they bring back the spitball," Frick said today. "The pitchers need help. Most of the rule changes the past few years have favored the batter. Something has to be done to give the game more balance."

According to Frick, a proposal to legalize the spitter was submitted to the major league rules committee last month. The group is expected to consider it during the majors' annual meetings early in December in Tampa, Fla. Jim Gallagher, veteran executive most recently with Philadelphia, is the committee chairman.

"A similar proposal was submitted to the committee a few years ago but was turned down," Frick recalled. "This time I think there's even more need for the spitter. The fans will eventually get tired of seeing all those home runs. The spitball would help bring back the stolen base, the hit-and-run and the sacrifice and would give the fans something new."

Frick pointed out Joe Cronin, American League president, and Frank Shaughnessy, former president of the International League, also are in favor of the spitball's return.

The spitball, outlawed in the early 1920s, moves up to the plate like a knuckler, only faster, Frick said.

OSU Alumni Aide Blasts Athletic Aide

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—John B. (Jack) Fullen, Ohio State University alumni secretary, commented Monday—apparently with tongue-in-cheek—that maybe Ohio State ought to hire a pro football team to play on Saturdays and run it under a new bureau of football.

Fullen, in a signed editorial in the Ohio State Lantern, student newspaper, expressed his ire with the faculty council's mid-October approval of a $416,000 - a year athletic scholarship program.

Fullen said that under the program an athlete getting a 1.7 scholastic average in his freshman year "will be eligible to receive the full list of board, room, tuition and books," and a reduced class schedule of 12 hours in season compared with the minimum of 15 for other students.

The alumni secretary assailed the council's claim that the program would raise athletes' scholastic requirements.

"They are not raising the standards at all," Fullen said. "They stay just as easy as they were. 'What the spokesman (for the council) really means is that, in recruiting a prospect — and are they everywhere recruited — they want to know whether he is worth spending the money on.'"

Crimson Tide Back with Elite

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Alabama's Crimson Tide, back among the elite of college football after a decade of mediocrity, have spelled success this year with a pair of Qs, and a couple of blokes named Pat and Mike.

The Qs stand for "quarterback" and "quickness" the hallmark of its rapid-fire offense and a rock-robbed defense. The Pat is also the quarterback, Pat Trammell.

Mike? He is a quick-driving fullback by the name of Mike Fracchia, who proves a perfect foil to the speed, deception and passing precision of his partner, Trammell.

This combination has led Coach Bear Bryant's team to a 7-0 record, and has helped it to be ranked No. 2 in The Associated Press' latest poll after whopping Mississippi State last Saturday, 24-0.

All elements have blended precisely. Trammell is ranked fifth nationally in total offense with 956 yards running and passing, and 11th in passing with 730 yards in completing 54 to 93 attempts.

Alabama is second nationally in total defense, allowing only 911 yards in seven games for a 130.1 average, and second in rushing defense with a miserly 55.1 per game average. It has allowed only 3.1 points per game, lowest in the nation.

Trammell has passed for five touchdowns, and scored eight. Fracchia has tallied four times and been the hatchet man on key yardage situations.

Both will be ready this Saturday when the Tide plays Richmond of the Southern Conference, causing the Spiders Coach Ed Merriek to crack, "I hope my boys won't be overconfident."

Richmond may be without half-back Earl Stoudt, its All Conference halfback and leading ground gainer, who injured a knee in last week's 11-0 victory over Virginia Tech.

Texas, the No. 1 team, will have to face Baylor without full-back Ray Poage, out for the second straight week. Third-ranked Ohio State, playing Indiana, probably will be without quarterback Bill Mrukowski, who suffered a gashed finger in the Buckeyes victory over Iowa.

Penn State lost guard Bob Hart

for the year because of a recurring ankle injury that will require surgery. Jerry Gross, the University of Detroit's quarterback who led the nation in total offense part of this season, was operated on Monday for a fracture of the right leg he suffered last week against Army. He is finished for 1961.

Notre Dame is expected to have guard Nick Buonoconte and end Jim Kelly back for this week's game at Pitt, when the Irish try to break a three-game losing string. Notre Dame full-back Mike Lind may be out another week with a pulled back muscle.

Baylor quarterback Bobby Ply was listed as doubtful for the Texas game after suffering a knee injury against Texas Christian.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Coach Paul Brown says he has no plans for a drastic personnel shakeup nor major change in tactics to try to improve the Cleveland Browns' chances in the National Football League race. The Browns are in third place in the eastern division with a 5-3 record.

Ohio State Advances To Third in Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Texas marched into first place in the weekly Associated Press poll of a 48-man committee of sports writers and sportscasters today after both Michigan State and Mississippi were upended. Michigan State had ruled the roost for three weeks.

The unbeaten Texas Longhorns, 27-0 winners over Southern Methodist, for their seventh straight, assumed the lead with only three games to play.

Alabama, also unbeaten in seven, took over second position by drubbing Mississippi State 24-0. Ohio State, 29-13 winner over Iowa, bolted into third place in the big shuffle.

Louisiana State, 10-7 conqueror of previously unbeaten Mississippi, advanced to the No. 4 slot and Minnesota, which knocked Michigan State out of the unbeaten class 13-0, took over fifth.

The points are figured on the basis of 10 for first, 9 for second and so on down to one for 10th place. On that basis, Texas has 473 points and Alabama 410.

There are no pairings involving teams from the top ten in this week's schedule.

The only unbeaten, untied clubs in the top ten are Texas, Alabama and Colorado. Ohio State has not lost but was tied by Texas Christian.

The top teams with first-place votes in parentheses:

1. Texas (35)	473
2. Alabama (6)	410
3. Ohio State (7)	365
4. Louisiana State	317
5. Minnesota	247
6. Michigan State	202
7. Mississippi	191
8. Colorado	173
9. Georgia Tech	164
10. Missouri	15

CHICAGO (AP) — Michigan State fullback George Saimes of Clinton, Ohio, remains in first place on the Big Ten all games scoring record despite his team's shutout by Minnesota Saturday.

Saimes has 42 points on seven touchdowns.

Three Ohio State players were listed among the Big Ten's scoring leaders. Bob Ferguson has 30 points on five touchdowns, Paul Warfield has 24 points on four TDs and Dick Van Raaphorst has 23 points on 14 points for touchdowns and three field goals.

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Department of Natural Resources has been asked to make a full scale investigation of the release of pheasants in the Lake Cowan area southwest of here.

State Rep. Max. H. Dennis, R-Clinton, made the request Monday after the county game protector reported searchers in the 1,000-area reservation found 483 birds killed by predatory animals. A thousand pheasants were released in the area Oct. 24.

Herbert F. Conner, the game protector, said volunteer searchers saw about 10 live birds, but that none took to the air when flushed.

This supports reports that the birds were released with their wings still clipped. Conner said pheasants' wings are clipped to keep them from leaving the rearing farms at Urbana, but that they should not be released until their wings have grown out again.

The game protector added that predators — mink, weasels, owls and foxes—normally kill about 10 per cent of the released pheasants. He said he doubts any of the birds will now survive until the hunting season opens.

Dennis also asked the department to investigate what he described as excessive lowering of Lake Cowan's water level.

Ohio State Advances To Third in Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Texas marched into first place in the weekly Associated Press poll of a 48-man committee of sports writers and sportscasters today after both Michigan State and Mississippi were upended. Michigan State had ruled the roost for three weeks.

The unbeaten Texas Longhorns, 27-0 winners over Southern Methodist, for their seventh straight, assumed the lead with only three games to play.

Alabama, also unbeaten in seven, took over second position by drubbing Mississippi State 24-0. Ohio State, 23-13 winner over Iowa, bolted into third place in the big shuffle.

Louisiana State, 10-7 conqueror of previously unbeaten Mississippi, advanced to the No. 4 slot and Minnesota, which knocked Michigan State out of the unbeaten class 13-0, took over fifth.

The points are figured on the basis of 10 for first, 9 for second and so on down to one for 10th place. On that basis, Texas has 473 points and Alabama 410.

There are no pairings involving teams from the top ten in this week's schedule.

The only unbeaten, untied clubs in the top ten are Texas, Alabama and Colorado. Ohio State has not lost but was tied by Texas Christian.

The top teams with first-place votes in parentheses:

1. Texas (35) 473
2. Alabama (6) 410
3. Ohio State (7) 365
4. Louisiana State 317
5. Minnesota 247
6. Michigan State 202

Weather Good, But Vote Total May Be Skimpy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Clear but crisp weather was forecast throughout Ohio during today's general election. However, less than half of Ohio's potential voters were expected to go to the polls.

Temperatures in the morning were expected to be mostly in the upper 20s but the Weather Bureau said sunshine would prevail over all, but the northeastern counties and no rain is expected. The sunshine was expected to lift temperatures into the 40s.

The only statewide issues on the ballot are four proposed amendments to the state constitution but most communities will be electing local officials and deciding bond issues.

Nine of the state's 23 congressional districts will be selecting representatives on the state board of education. The board has 23 members with their elections staggered.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown forecasts 2,618,100 voters will come out, but probably far fewer than that will vote on the constitutional amendments because most of the interest is concentrated in the local issues.

Ohio congressmen of both parties are reported unhappy about the first of the proposed amendments, which would authorize members of the Ohio Senate to fill vacancies in that body by appointment.

They say state senators with four-year terms could make bids for membership in the U.S. House mid-way in their Senate terms without running the risk of losing their Senate seats.

This is the only star the amendments have caused, and even it is countered by the fact that both houses of the legislature voted by wide margins to put the issue on the ballot. The proposal is intended to do away with expensive special election to fill possible Senate vacancies.

The other amendments would give the legislature emergency power to provide for continuity of state and local government in event of enemy attack, make the militia section of the constitution conform to federal statutes and would give the state Senate the right to advise and consent to major appointments by the governor. The last would only give it a prerogative it had been exercising without written authority until an Ohio Supreme Court decision upset the practice earlier this year.

The nation's political pulse-takers are intently watching the voters of New Jersey and New York City today for any symptoms that could linger until the national elections in 1962 and 1964.

Of particular interest was the governor's race in New Jersey, whose unpredictable voters have skipped back and forth between both major parties for the past decade. Here an Eisenhower Republican, James P. Mitchell, was matched against Democrat Richard J. Hughes who carries the approval of the New Frontier. New Jersey was narrowly counted for Kennedy in last year's presidential election.

In New York City's mayoral race, much of the attention is focused on the bitter feud within the Democratic party. Republicans—who often provide much more than token opposition—boj their candidate, Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz, can make a strong showing against Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner, who is trying for a third term.

Virginia voters are expected to follow tradition and elect a Democratic governor. Dozens of other cities across the nation are electing mayors, and Michigan's Wayne County (Detroit) is electing a U.S. representative. Scores of state legislature seats are at stake in New Jersey, Virginia and Kentucky.

In the contest for mayor of New York, Wagner, who broke with Tammany Hall, has President Kennedy's endorsement. The party's state chairman, Michael H. Prendergast, withheld his support, giving it instead to City Comptroller Lawrence E. Gerosa a Democrat running as an independent.

Wagner is heavily favored. The weather outlook is cloudy with chance of showers. Voting hours are 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. There are 3,506,913 eligible voters. More than two million are expected to vote.

In New Jersey, most political observers favor Mitchell, who was secretary of labor in Dwight E. Eisenhower's Cabinet. The democrats see their man Hughes, a former Superior Court judge, making a photo finish.

An all-new Ford . . .
Galaxie and Falcon

Some cars have new names... this name will have a new car!

The name is familiar—the Ford Fairlane 500. The car itself is totally new—so new you'll see nothing else like it this year. It is one of Ford's milestone designs—and will be as influential in its way as the first mass-produced car (a Ford Model T), the first popular station wagon (a Ford Wagon), the first four-passenger luxury car (a Ford Thunderbird), the world's most successful compact (a Ford Falcon).

Right between Galaxie and Falcon in size and in price, the 1962 Ford Fairlane 500 is just the right car for just about everybody; you have never been able to buy anything so right before.

Big in room, ride and performance, it is still priced under most compacts. It nurses a nickel as though it never expected to see another. It moves like a rabbit on roller skates.

New unitized body a foot shorter outside . . . full-size inside

Ford engineers have changed the proportions of the automobile: a completely new unitized body gives you more room inside with less bulk outside. A foot shorter than previous Fairlanes, the new Fairlane 500 is pleasantly parkable, delightfully driveable, easily garageable. At the same time it packs into its neat and nifty 197 inches as much passenger room as you had in some of the biggest Fords ever built.

Twice-a-year maintenance

Service is reduced to a minimum—30,000 miles on many items, twice a year on the rest. You go 30,000 miles between major lubrications, 6,000 miles between oil changes and minor lubrications. You don't have to touch the engine coolant-antifreeze for two years—or 30,000 miles—at a time. Brakes adjust themselves.

All-new economy Eight from world's V-8 leader

The hand that honed the Thunderbird—and sped the Falcon to all-time Economy Run honors—turned to a new problem here, the world's first economy V-8. Made possible by new Ford foundry methods, the new Challenger V-8 is as strong as iron—and a lot lighter than iron's ever been before. As lively as you'd like . . . thrifter than you'd expect a V-8 to be . . . it's a natural powerplant for America's first eat-your-cake-and-have-it car.

For those who want even greater thrift, there's a new Fairlane Six. Its economy would be gratifying in a smaller car. In a car this size it's a downright delight.

Preview America's newest car now

As part of Preview Run U.S.A., new Fairlane 500's are riding the nation's highways and main streets right now. Watch for them. See what thousands have already seen—and raved about. Take a turn at the wheel—and perhaps do a little raving yourself.

We think you'll agree: this all-new Ford is just right for just about everybody. No matter how many new cars you've looked at, you haven't seen anything like this one. It will be at your Ford Dealer's next week. If you miss it now, be sure to see it then.

JUST ABOUT EVERYBODY!

Nine of the state's 23 congressional districts will be selecting representatives on the state board of education. The board has 23 members with their elections staggered.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown forecasts 2,618,100 voters will come out, but probably far fewer than that will vote on the constitutional amendments because most of the interest is concentrated in the local issues.

Ohio congressmen of both parties are reported unhappy about the first of the proposed amendments, which would authorize members of the Ohio Senate to fill vacancies in that body by appointment.

They say state senators with four-year terms could make bids for membership in the U.S. House mid-way in their Senate terms without running the risk of losing the Senate seats.

This is the only star the amendments have caused, and even it is countered by the fact that both houses of the legislature voted by wide margins to put the issue on the ballot. The proposal is intended to do away with expensive special election to fill possible Senate vacancies.

The other amendments would give the legislature emergency power to provide for continuity of state and local government in event of enemy attack, make the militia section of the constitution conform to federal statutes and would give the state Senate the right to advise and consent to major appointments by the governor. The last would only give it a prerogative it had been exercising without written authority until an Ohio Supreme Court decision upset the practice earlier this year.

The nation's political pulse-takers are intently watching the voters of New Jersey and New York City today for any symptoms that could linger until the national elections in 1962 and 1964.

Of particular interest was the governor's race in New Jersey, whose unpredictable voters have skipped back and forth between both major parties for the past decade. Here an Eisenhower Republican, James P. Mitchell, was matched against Democrat Richard J. Hughes who carries the approval of the New Frontier. New Jersey was narrowly counted for Kennedy in last year's presidential election.

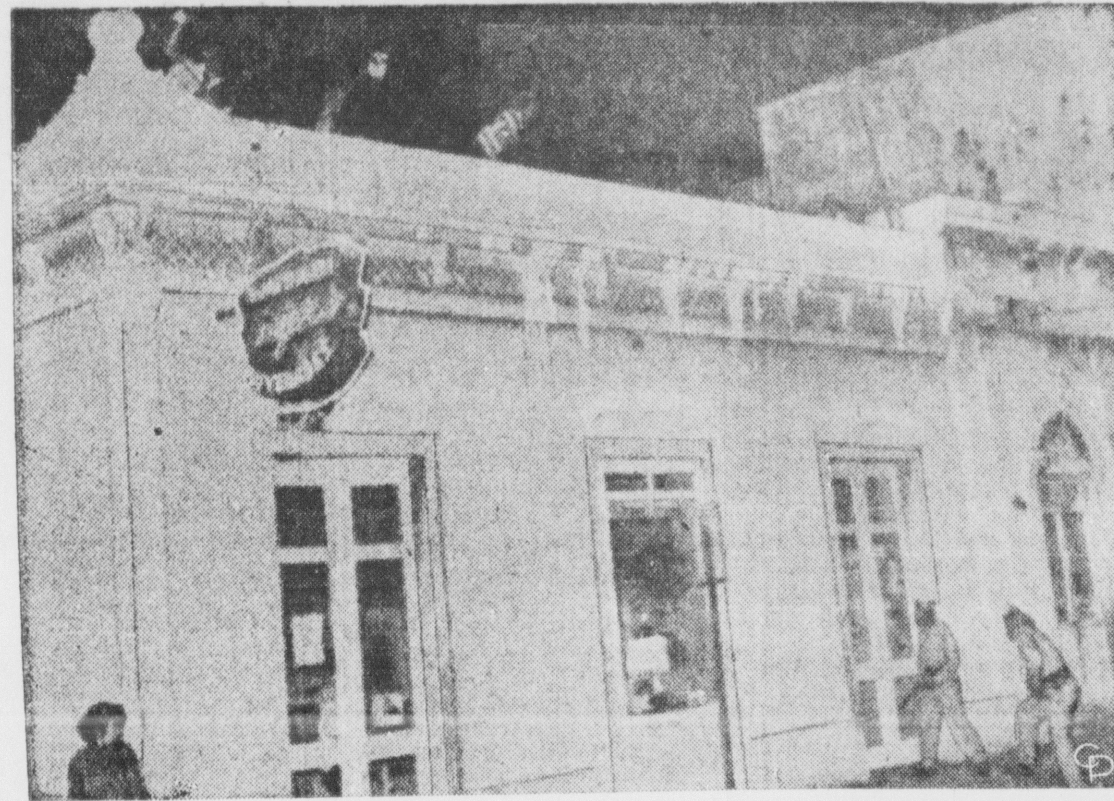

In New York City's mayoral race, much of the attention is focused on the bitter feud within the Democratic party. Republicans—who often provide much more than token opposition—hoj their candidate, Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz, can make a strong showing against Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner, who is trying for a third term.

Virginia voters are expected to follow tradition and elect a Democratic governor. Dozens of other cities across the nation are electing mayors, and Michigan's Wayne County (Detroit) is electing a U.S. representative. Scores of state legislature seats are at stake in New Jersey, Virginia and Kentucky.

In the contest for mayor of New York, Wagner, who broke with Tammany Hall, has President Kennedy's endorsement. The party's state chairman, Michael H. Prendergast, withheld his support, giving it instead to City Comptroller Lawrence E. Gerosa, a Democrat running as an independent.

Wagner is heavily favored. The weather outlook is cloudy with chance of showers. Voting hours are 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. There are 3,506,913 eligible voters. More than two million are expected to vote.

In New Jersey, most political observers favor Mitchell, who was secretary of labor in Dwight E. Eisenhower's Cabinet. The democrats see their man Hughes, a former Superior Court judge, making a photo finish.

Some cars have new names... this name will have a new car!

The name is familiar—the Ford Fairlane 500. The car itself is totally new—so new you'll see nothing else like it this year. It is one of Ford's milestone designs—and will be as influential in its way as the first mass-produced car (a Ford Model T), the first popular station wagon (a Ford Mass), the first four-passenger luxury car (a Ford Thunderbird), the world's most successful compact (a Ford Falcon).

Right between Galaxie and Falcon in size and in price, the 1962 Ford Fairlane 500 is just the right car for just about everybody; you have never been able to buy anything so right before.

Big in room, ride and performance, it is still priced under most compacts. It nurses a nickel as though it never expected to see another. It moves like a rabbit on roller skates.

New unitized body a foot shorter outside . . . full-size inside

Ford engineers have changed the proportions of the automobile: a completely new unitized body gives you more room inside with less bulk outside. A foot shorter than previous Fairlans, the new Fairlane 500 is pleasantly parkable, delightfully driveable, easily garageable. At the same time it packs into its neat and nifty 197 inches as much passenger room as you had in some of the biggest Fords ever built.

Twice-a-year maintenance

Service is reduced to a minimum—30,000 miles on many items, twice a year on the rest. You go 30,000 miles between major lubrications, 6,000 miles between oil changes and minor lubrications. You don't have to touch the engine coolant-antifreeze for two years—or 30,000 miles—at a time. Brakes adjust themselves.

All-new economy Eight from world's V-8 leader

The hand that honed the Thunderbird—and sped the Falcon to all-time Economy Run honors—turned to a new problem here, the world's first economy V-8. Made possible by new Ford foundry methods, the new Challenger V-8 is as strong as iron—and a lot lighter than iron's ever been before. As lively as you'd like . . . thrifter than you'd expect a V-8 to be . . . it's a natural powerplant for America's first eat-your-cake-and-have-it-car.

For those who want even greater thrift, there's a new Fairlane Six. Its economy would be gratifying in a smaller car. In a car this size it's a downright delight.

Preview America's newest car now

As part of Preview Run U.S.A., new Fairlane 500's are riding the nation's highways and main streets right now. Watch for them. See what thousands have already seen—and raved about. Take a turn at the wheel—and perhaps do a little raving yourself.

We think you'll agree: this all-new Ford is just right for just about everybody. No matter how many new cars you've looked at, you haven't seen anything like this one. It will be at your Ford Dealer's next week. If you miss it now, be sure to see it then.
